Universal Airlines' Super DC-8 "stretched" jet prepares for its inaugural flight from Detroit's Metropolitan Airport yesterday, taking with it some 250 passengers. —Press Photo

'Stretched' jet service Initiated by Universal

Universal Airlines "stretched" out into the wild blue yonder yesterday.

Based at Willow Run Airport, Universal Detroit Metropolitan Airport for the inaugural flight from Detroit of its new "stretched" DC-8. Runways at Willow Run aren't long enough.

Universal's new enlarged DC-8 is 187 feet long and carries 250 passengers. The original DC-8 is 150 feet long.

As Universal Airlines officials and employees watched, the super DC-8-61 fan jet ripped into the sky and was on its way to St. Petersburg, Fla. The flight ended 2½ hours later.

For many of Universal's onlookers, it marked the first glimpse of the huge jet with its black and white markings. It and another DC-8 fan jet, scheduled to leave Metro today, are engaged in Universal's charter service.

Yesterday's flight was charted by the Deltona Corp. of Miami. Today's flight will be carrying tourists to Hawaii.

Nixon, De Gaulle continue Talks after a 'good start'

PARIS (AP) — After a "good start," President Nixon and President Charles de Gaulle continue their talks today at Versailles Palace. Few demonstrations marred his first day in France.

The two presidents spent more than two hours together in private sessions Friday and their spokesmen said the session was "frank and cordial ... A good start." The substance of the conversation was not disclosed.

Nixon regards his sessions with the French leader as the most important phase of the eight-day trip that has taken him to major West European capitals. He wants to close the gap of misunderstanding that has plagued American-French relations in recent years.

Nixon hopes to forge a fresh start with De Gaulle, forgetting the past in which the French leader has called for a lessening of United States involvement in Europe, a diminished role for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and formation of a weaker alternative to the European Common Market.

Nixon strongly backs NATO and the Common Market, as well as Britain's effort, opposed by De Gaulle, to gain entry to the market. U.S. officials said the American President would state these positions directly to his French counterpart.

The setting for the second Nixon-De Gaulle meeting was the Grand Trianon in Versailles, a palace built in 1687 for Louis XIV and restored to its original grandeur by De Gaulle.

De Gaulle was host to Nixon at a black tie official dinner Friday night at the Elysee Palace, the French equivalent of the White House. Nixon will entertain President and Mrs. De Gaulle tonight at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Sargent Shriver.

Sunday Nixon flies back to Rome and goes to Vatican City for talks with Pope Paul VI before returning to Washington that night.

Leftist efforts to mar Nixon's first day in Paris with demonstrations fizzled, although some leaflets were tossed at his motorcade. Small groups of radicals scuffled with police and a number of arrests were made. The Communists promised another try today.

More typical of the French reaction was the chant "Nixon, Nixon" by onlookers.

Arborland Robbers Escape

Area police agencies were searching today for two men who took part in an attempted armed robbery and a shooting at a finance company store in the Arborland Shopping Center early this afternoon.

Police said the robbers were white males, "sloppily dressed", one wearing a black ski jacket and the other a brown, sheepskin-lined jacket.

They escaped in a vehicle of unknown make following the shooting about 12:15 p.m.

March . . . smarch! It's nap time

Since March came in like a lamb today, this roarsome wonder at Chicago's Brookfield Zoo could care less about old sayings about the advent of March; in fact, it looks like he cares little about anything. (AP Photo)

Autobahn to Berlin Closed, then opened

BERLIN (AP) — East German soldiers armed with submachine guns blocked the main autobahn between West Germany and West Berlin for two hours today, then re-opened it.

The closure followed a Soviet announcement backing "necessary measures to cut short the unlawful militaristic activities" in West Berlin and an accusation from Moscow that Western air links to the isolated city were being used illegally.

The Western allies who administer West Berlin under postwar agreements—the United States, Britain and France—are committed to keeping these air corridors open, since the Communists control surface access to the city. The allies regard the city as part of West Germany which the Soviets dispute.

On Friday the Soviet Union officially charged that West Germany was "secretly transporting" military goods from West Berlin by road. Today the official Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda went one step further, charging the air routes also are being used for such shipments.

Jury decision unanimous In Clay Shaw acquittal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A jury's unanimous verdict of innocent today cleared Clay L. Shaw, 55, of a charge of conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

Read to a packed, heavily guarded Criminal District Court at 1:02 a.m., the verdict triggered a moment of bedlam. There was an ear-splitting concerted shriek from the women spectators.

The 12-man jury rejected both the state case and Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's plea that a conviction would strike a blow at "excessive government power."

"Garrison has a right to his opinion about the government and the Warren Commission," said juror David I. Powe shortly after court adjourned. "But I just don't feel his opinion is enough to convict a man."

Shaw, a 6-foot-4 retired New Orleans businessman with tanned and craggy features, stood in a protective circle of deputies as the verdict was read.

"Do you wish the jury polled?" asked Judge Edward A. Haggerty.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock, who headed Garrison's team of prosecutors, slumped low in his chair. He shook his head wearily, side to side.

Powe, a juror who grew a goatee while sequestered during the 34-day trial, said the verdict was unanimous and was reached on the first ballot taken in the bleak little room behind the courtroom.

CLAY SHAW . . . acquitted

Deliberation took about 50 minutes. Shaw was cleared two years to the day from the date he was arrested—March 1, 1967.

The state charged Shaw with conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and others to murder Kennedy, who was slain in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963. The Warren Commission named Oswald as the assassin.

Much of the prosecution case concentrated on attacking the commission's conclusion that Oswald, a former New Orleans resident, was alone and unaided in the assassination.

Garrison, up for re-election in six months, was not in the courtroom when the verdict was read. He appeared rarely during the trial, leaving the case to four assistants.

In final arguments, he left the oratory on legal detail and testimony to the assistants—but made an emotional appeal in the final minutes, attacking the Warren Commission.

"The government handling of the investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy was a fraud," he said, "probably the greatest fraud perpetrated in the history of mankind."

The Warren Commission, he said, was a group of "men of high position and prestige sitting on a board and telling you what happened but withholding the evidence ..."

"You can cause justice to happen in this case for the first time in five years," he concluded, "and if you do that, nothing you have ever done will have been more important."

Defense lawyer F. Irvin Dymond said Shaw was "a patsy picked ... to provide a forum for an attack on the Warren Commission."

Nothing had been proven, he said, since the state's entire case rested on the testimony of Perry Raymond Russo, and he said the defense had shown "Perry Raymond Russo is a liar."

Dymond examined the state's case step by step, applying what he called plain logic. "It just doesn't add up," he said.

Haggerty held the court in session until the jurors got out. Shaw stood, smiling broadly and shook each juror's hand as they filed past.

Woman killed In I-94 wreck

An auto accident early this morning on I-94 at the Stone School Rd. overpass took the life of a 18-year-old Granite City woman.

State Police said Katherine J. Fournier was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. Her husband, Thomas P. Fournier, 19, apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the car, troopers said.

The Fourniers' car ran off the road onto the median and smashed into the guard rail on the north side of the median. The rail went through the right side of the car and out the back window. Some 60 to 70 feet of rail was involved.

This makes the third time this year Washtenaw County has had a fatal accident on the first day of the month. Two of the incidents have taken place on I-94.

The Fourniers were on their way to Detroit to visit their family, troopers said. Thomas Fournier is in the Army and was on leave. He was taken to St. Joseph in a state of shock, but had no visible injuries, officers said.

The Ypsilanti Township Fire Department had to be called to cut Mrs. Fournier out of the car, which was a total loss.

The death is the fifth traffic fatality in the county for 1969, one less than the total last year at this time.

Gremore may sue PCHA directors

Kenneth W. Gremore, fired executive director of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority, said yesterday that he was prepared to file libel and damage suits against the PCHA and individual members of the Board of Directors.

"I'm going to haul — (the PCHA directors) — into court," said Gremore. He declined to name the individual members of the board.

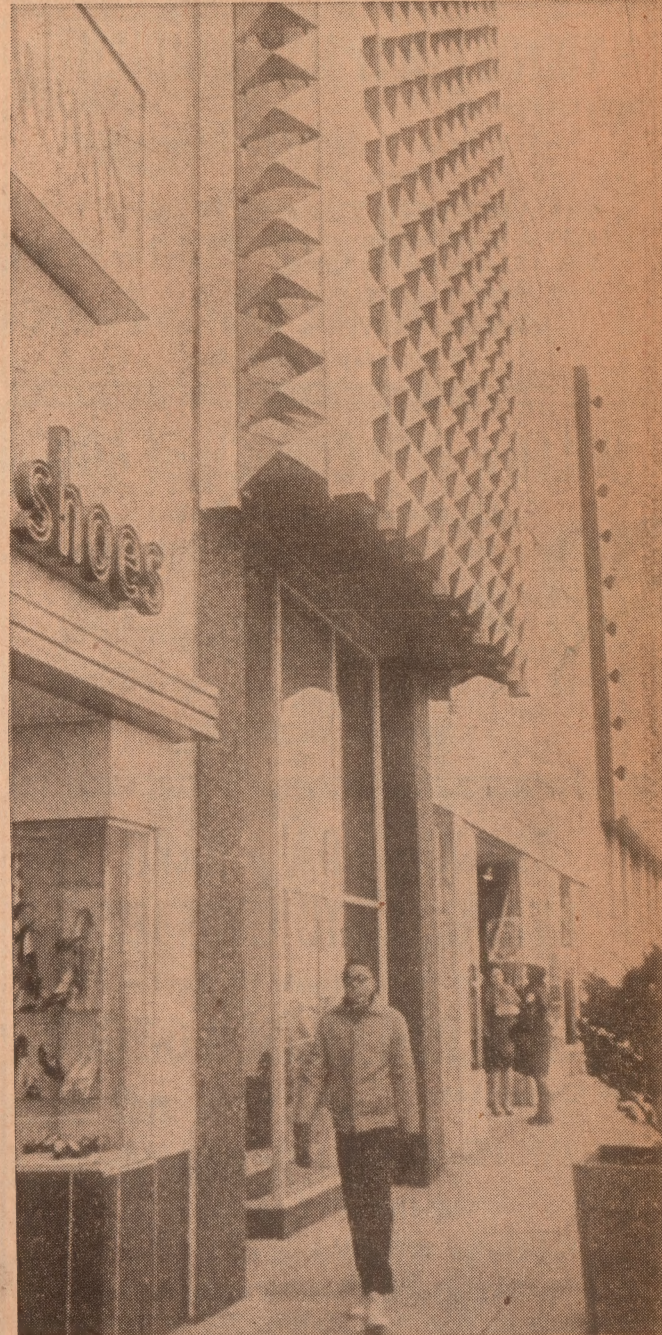

That was his reaction to the board's action Thursday night in voting to pay him the $15,000 awarded him by Wayne County District Court on charges of breach of contract after his firing in 1965.

Gremore apparently is carrying on a personal battle with the present PCHA executive director, Dr. Karl S. Klicka.

Gremore said that at the libel trial Fred Burke of Sen. Philip A. Hart's office will testify that Dr. Klicka is "persona non grata" in Washington.

Gremore also said that two of his secretaries were told by attorneys for the PCHA that "if you say anything good about Ken Gremore you'll have your livers cut out."

Gremore said that an account in yesterday's Press that he originally had filed suit against the PCHA for $250,000 was wrong. The suit was for $125,000, he said.

A new outlook in Ypsilanti

There's a new face along Michigan Ave. these days — the recently-completed aluminum facade that looks out from the Wayne Federal and Savings and Loan Association. THE WORLD OF RELIGION

Communication man on the go

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Perhaps you've met Paul Stevens.

It may have been in New York or Washington, Hong Kong or Saigon. Maybe it was Moscow, or London, or Paris or Bangkok. Jerusalem? Possibly. But it probably wasn't Fort Worth, although his home is here.

Dr. Paul M. Stevens, 51, is director of the Radio and Television Commission of the 11 million-member Southern Baptist Convention, the nation's largest Protestant denomination. As such, he travels the world, overseeing personally all network television productions for Southern Baptists, plus a variety of other duties. Dr. Stevens is handsome, articulate and a stylish dresser, a man always on the move.

A graduate of Baylor University at Waco, Tex., he attended theological seminaries in Louisville and Fort Worth, served three years as an Air Force combat chaplain and pastored several churches. He is now in his 15th year as director of the Radio and Television Commission, headquartered here in a glittering stone and tinted glass structure overlooking the city's fashionable West Side.

With a $1.5-million budget and 75 staff members, the commission is charged with electronically spreading the religious word, not necessarily the Baptist word, around the globe. The forerunner of the commission was founded on a shoestring in 1938. It assumed its present name in 1954 and a year later shifted from Atlanta, Ga., to Fort Worth.

The commission now is producing 28 radio and television programs heard weekly by an audience estimated at 50 million. Four programs in Spanish and one each in Russian, Portuguese, Italian, Chinese and Navajo are heard in 40 countries over 425 language stations. Working with the three major networks—NBC, ABC and CBS—the commission has undertaken some ambitious tasks. These include color television documentaries such as "Walk Beside Me," dealing with the apostle Paul's missionary journeys, and "The Inheritance," an archeological trek through Old Testament times.

Power of faith

By Woodi Ishmael

The Republic of the Philippines likes to be known as "Asia's only Christian nation," since 85 per cent of the Filipino people are registered as Christian, compared to the other countries of Asia with less than 10 per cent Christian. The Christian art of the Philippines is made up of many cultures, both oriental and western, showing the influence of the many peoples who have come there. But it is in woodcarving that the Filipinos are most at home. The islands are rich in woods suitable for carving and it is in this medium the life of Jesus is often portrayed. In the Province of Laguna there is a whole town devoted to carving. Its name is Paete, which means "The Chisel." There are over a hundred shops and factories turning out carvings like the one above, The Last Supper. The inspiration for this carving was undoubtedly from St. Mark, 14:17, 18. "And in the evening he cometh with the 12. And as he sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me." For the people of Paete, carving the Bible stories is not only a livelihood, it is a way of life. And like Jesus, a carpenter, they also work with wood.

Church women share 'the world'

If you are a woman member of any one of 14 Ypsilanti churches you are automatically a member of Church Women United (CWU). The organization, committed to a program of fellowship, study and action, held activities from 1941 to 1950 as the National Council of Church Women, and from 1950 to 1966 as United Church Women. In 1968 new by-laws established the current group. The group's 1969 activity year begins Friday when women around the globe will observe the World Day of Prayer.

Participating Ypsilanti churches are: A.M.E. Church, Monroe St. Church of God, Congress St. Church of God, Congregational Church, Metropolitan Memorial Baptist, Second Baptist, St. John the Baptist, Catholic, St. Luke's Episcopal and Emmanuel Lutheran.

Also the First Baptist Church, First United Methodist, St. Matthew's United Methodist, the Salvation Army and the United Presbyterian Church. Church Women United has local, state, national and international dimensions. What does each woman in far flung areas have in common? The organization newsletter answers simply, "The world in which we live..."

ternational project collected nearly $250,000. Ypsilanti's CWU is also active in "Share-a-loaf," and with an Ypsilanti State Hospital project. The group is also responsible for the Nativity scene along Michigan Ave. during the Christmas holidays.

The "Share-a-loaf" project was undertaken in 1966. It is a "city person's" part of CROP, a Michigan farmers missionary project for overseas relief. The church women were praised for their work at Ypsilanti State Hospital in the January volunteer newsletter.

Every Monday the women have devoted part of the afternoon to work with a group of patients. They began their project by fixing up a recreation room where they could meet the patients in a lighter atmosphere.

The YSH volunteers support their project independently of CWU. The organization contributes to an international student fund, Michigan Migrants and Christian Causeways. The current slate of officers which leads the board that holds an open meeting on the first Tuesday of each month consists of: Mrs. Alfred Brose, president; Mrs. Paul Woods, vice-president; Mrs. Signey Guy, secretary and Mrs. Carl Barnett, treasurer.

The churches the women represent are, respectively, First Methodist, Monroe St. Church of God, St. Luke's Episcopal and St. Matthew's United Methodist.

The philosophy behind "Lest Coin" is that if every woman gives the smallest coin of her country's denomination she will be contributing equally to the share project. Mrs. Olsen said although a penny or a peso doesn't seem like much, last year the intervention project collected nearly $250,000. Ypsilanti's CWU is also active in "Share-a-loaf," and with an Ypsilanti State Hospital project. The group is also responsible for the Nativity scene along Michigan Ave. during the Christmas holidays.

Huron Valley Youth rally Is planned

Former All-American Bob Davenport will be featured at tonight's 7:15 rally of Huron Valley Youth for Christ at Ann Arbor High School. Davenport presently is football coach at Taylor University, Upland, Indiana. The former two time All-American chosen rookie of the year in 1953 was the starting fullback in the Rose Bowl. Look magazine named him to the All-American squad in his junior year 1954 where he helped to lead U.C.L.A. to the National Championship. During his senior year, Davenport won the Pop Warner trophy as the most valuable player on the West Coast.

As the founder of Wandering Wheels, a bicycle touring program which travels coast to coast during the summer Davenport has escorted 105 young men across America. The club is an attempt to demonstrate the vitality of the Christian life. The Sands of Time from Taylor University, the Collegiate Choroesters from Detroit Bible College and The Mystics from Spring Arbor College, will provide music.

De Gaulle Nixon confer

Whenever the chief executive stopped his limousine to mingle with crowds or climb atop the trunk to grin and wave with both arms outstretched.

With nothing said publicly about the first Nixon-De Gaulle conference, observers sought significance in the televised exchange of remarks after Nixon's arrival from Rome.

Nixon, who likes to talk off the cuff, discarded most of his prepared text, including a paragraph lavish in praise of De Gaulle. U.S. sources said there was no significance in this; that Nixon stood behind the advance document.

2 local churches to start Welfare system seminars

"The Welfare System: Public and Private" will be the topic for the first of four Sunday evening social issues seminars conducted jointly by the Boards of Christian Education of the First United Presbyterian Church at 300 N. Washington Ave. and the First Congregational Church at 214 N. Adams St.

Tomorrow's 7 p.m. session at the First Congregational Church will be moderated by Mrs. Mary McCarthy, economics professor at Eastern Michigan University.

The panelists include J. Walter Daschner, director of the Ypsilanti Community Chest; Mrs. Shirley Harrison, former supervisor of Family and Children Service within the county social service department and Mrs. Jane Costabile, social work professor at the University of Michigan.

The panel series, which will also assess Urban Renewal in Ypsilanti, Problems of Youth and Age, and Freedom, Order and Law at subsequent meetings, is open to the public.

The March 2nd and 9th meetings will be held at the First Congregational Church; the March 16th and 23rd sessions will be at the First United Presbyterian Church. All seminars are scheduled for 7 p.m.

Participants will include City Manager John G. Cartwright, William Neely and Herman L. Catchings of the Urban Renewal office, City Parks Director Jesse A. Rutherford, Mrs. Amy Seymour of the Senior Citizens Center and Lynn Spitz-Nagel, social worker at Ypsilanti State Hospital.

Area attorneys and educators will also be tapped as resource people.

George Beaudette Sr. and wife Margaret greet patrons of the Huron Inn beside an old "ragtime" piano, since rebuilt, which was contributed by a piano-playing University of Michigan student.

Huron Inn proprietor Decides to take it easier

George Beaudette Sr., 50, who has built the Huron Inn at 625 N. Huron St. into a Ypsilanti institution, is going to take life easier.

Beaudette has secured the services of Louis McFall as manager and Miss Dorothy Bloom as co-manager.

Beaudette said the tavern was incorporated three years ago with himself as president and his son, George Jr., 28, as vice president.

For the last two years, the Huron Inn has won the award for collecting the most money in the Cancer Crusade, formerly known as the March of Dimes.

"It is a matter of pride of our customers," said Beaudette. "We started out with dimes inserted in a card and ended up with dollar bills posted on the wall."

McFall said he would continue the "crusade" and other traditions of the bar.

Beaudette said he will still "be around". He will remain as president of the corporation.

The bar includes an old, pink "ragtime" piano, which Margaret Beaudette said was brought in by Frank Kuntz, who once played there. The present piano player is Edward Szodronski.

It is the type of place where a patron was overheard to say, "Every time I go to get my auto tags, I end up here."

Beaudette, who came to Ypsilanti from Laurium, Mich., has owned Huron Inn since 1953. The bar, he said, gained one of the first licenses issued after the end of prohibition.

Beaudette has been in Ypsilanti since 1939. Asked how he had gained his reputation, wife Margaret interrupted to say, "He is community minded and has operated in good faith."

The senior Beaudette says he now will be able to spend more time at his favorite hobbies — boating and fishing.

38 bagged In raid on 'Blind pig'

Deputies of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department along with Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey and Assistant Prosecutor Booker T. Williams, took part in a raid on a "blind pig" at 4:15 a.m. today.

The illegal bar has been under observation for some time, said the sheriff. This morning, along with 30 of his deputies, Harvey led his men to the blind pig, located in Ypsilanti Township on Washtenaw Ave. Entry was made by breaking down the front door.

The blind pig was located at 4633 Washtenaw, a house used as a campaign headquarters for the November elections, next to the Ypsilanti Drive-in Theater. The illegal drinking was taking place on the top floor of the building, deputies said.

Thirty-eight people were arrested, 25 men and 13 women, of whom six were held in the County Jail. The deputies confiscated a large amount of intoxicants and some narcotics, deputies said.

Further details of the raid are not known, but Harvey said the raid came off without much trouble with no one getting hurt.

Willow Run teachers go to school

Fifty teachers from Willow Run public schools attended a three-day art workshop this week at Thurston Elementary School. The free educational service was provided by Binney and Smith Inc., the makers of Crayola crayons and other art supplies. The teacher was Mrs. Betty Ohlrogge Dabbs, who holds a master's degree from the University of Indiana. The teachers spent 15 hours of their own time in "learning by doing with rolled up sleeves." They were instructed in modern creative art education and materials.

'Still stuck On talks' —EMU

Negotiations between officials of Eastern Michigan University and representatives of black students who demonstrated on the campus were broken off yesterday, EMU spokesmen said.

EMU said the students again refused to discuss any of their demands until the university promises amnesty to 14 arrested demonstrators.

University officials said they were available throughout the afternoon but that the students did not indicate that they wanted to resume talks.

An investigation into the demands of the demonstrating students and any possible actions that can be taken has been promised university officials.

"We would rather have the benefit of the counsel of the concerned students," Eastern President Harold E. Sponberg said, "but we will attempt to do what we can to deal with their concerns even if they will not meet with us."

According to university officials approximately 50 students occupied Pierce Hall, the university's central administration building, about 8 a.m. last Thursday. The university says they chained the doors and refused admission to students, faculty, and staff.

University security officers cut the chains. The students were urged to leave the building. Most did, but 13 who remained were arrested by state police on charges of conspiring to create a disturbance.

In a later demonstration, another student was arrested on charges of inciting a riot.

Preliminary hearings for the 13 have been postponed until March 26. The hearing for the student charged with inciting a riot was held last week, and District Judge Edward Deake will rule on the matter March 19.

300 at WR sign For night school

Over 300 persons have registered for 20 evening classes offered in the Willow Run school district this spring semester.

A 6-week course in camping drew the most interest. Forty students are attending the class which is conducted free as a public service by a representative from the Michigan State Department of Parks in Lansing.

Presidential primary Proposed for state

LANSING (AP) — A presidential primary in Michigan beginning with the 1972 election was proposed Friday in a bill introduced in the House.

The measure calls for listing on the ballot the names of all potential candidates of each major political party "generally advocated or recognized in the national news media."

Under the proposal, sponsored by Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford, candidates would remain on the ballot unless they file an affidavit within 42 days of the primary stating, without qualification, they are not and do not intend to become a presidential candidate at the forthcoming election.

Minority party candidates could get their names on the primary ballot by submitting a petition signed by at least 5,000 qualified voters. The preferential primary would be held on the last Tuesday of June.

Delegates to national conventions would be morally bound to vote for the presidential candidate who won the primary until he released them or the candidate received, after the first ballot, less than one-fourth of the votes needed for nomination.

Also dropped into the House hopper was a bill to create a comprehensive state health planning commission and a similar advisory council.

The five-member commission would consist of the directors of the departments of Public Health, Mental Health and Social Services and Budget Bureau, along with the superintendent of public instruction.

At least 34 members appointed by the governor would sit on the advisory council, which would approve general policies and principles proposed by the commission before their final adoption.

The commission would review all the plans and programs of the state agencies relating to health services, make application for federal funds and grants from other public and private sources.

An appropriation bill introduced by Rep. Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit, calls for the allocation of $1.425 million for the improvement of the housing of migratory farm workers.

A major share of the money would be used to pay employers of 50 per cent of the cost of building or remodeling housing for the migratory farm workers.

The House met Friday for a two-hour morning session, but devoted its attention mainly to procedural matters.

UR grants Available For repairs

The availability of rehabilitation funds to improve structures in the Parkridge Urban Renewal area was emphasized in an announcement today by local UR director Herman L. Catchings.

Catchings explained that grants up to $3,000 are available for improvements and are awarded upon application and the basis of proven need. He said that the purpose of such a project is "the renewal of deteriorating areas to a long-term, sound condition, to make substantial improvements of the quality of properties and living conditions, to prevent the spread of blighted homes that are basically sound and worth conserving and can be economically repaired."

The director reported that one grant has been executed here with the resulting improvements to a Madison Street residence.

"This home is one of the many that was in need of repairs," he explained. "These grants are free — up to $3,000 — to persons in low-income brackets with no strings attached other than showing the need."

"We have at this time three other homeowner's grants pending and desire others to apply and take advantage of this special grant," Catchings stated.

The local Urban Renewal office is at 500 S. Hamilton St.

Alert is on For fires in Grasslands

Chief Robert H. Fuller of the Ypsilanti Township Fire Department today warned parents to watch that the small fry don't play with matches out in open fields.

Over 45 grass fires have been reported in the last two weeks. Matches or cigarettes have caused grass fires which have taken firemen away from the station house and weakened the strength of the department, Fuller said.

The chief also said that anyone who wants to burn in an open field, under careful supervision, must call or come in to the fire department and obtain a permit.

MEMO FROM A CAR DEALER

THE SUPER SALESMAN

GENE BUTMAN

The secrets of the super salesman are disarmingly simple. According to the experts on motivation who have been testing salesmen for years, success almost wholly depends on their attitude to life.

Empathy is that part of a person's nature that enables him (or her) to "sense" what the other person is feeling. To look at the problem through the customer's eyes, as it were, and thus be able to come up with a solution that satisfies the customer's needs.

Hard work and ambition sound simpler but don't define as easily. The type of ambition and desire most productive of results is the type that gets satisfaction out of a job well done, apart from the financial remuneration.

Whether your nose turns up or down, or if your ears stand out from your head, doesn't cut much ice when the results are tabulated. Though, of course, personal cleanliness and good habits naturally have a bearing on how an individual affects others.

Careers in selling in the automobile industry are constantly opening for qualified people. The personal and financial rewards are better than average and the future is limited only by your ability to achieve.

If the satisfactions and benefits of the automobile industry appeal to you, it might be time well spent to talk over your situation with us. It's a move that could change your life.

See you next Saturday.

DEAR ABBY:

Woman needs husband To keep her miserable

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My first marriage was one long, hard struggle with a large family and no money and an ailing husband. When he finally passed on I was 52 and had one teen-aged daughter left at home. I felt so free — as if I were flying. Had my own social security check and no financial worries.

I met and married a very good-looking, happy-go-lucky man whose wife just died. He said, "Marry me and I will show you all the places I have been." So like a fool I married him and now he says he's "tired" and wants to settle down. So now I'm stuck. I'm a housekeeper and that's about all. He works only when he absolutely has to. I also have a hunch he is hoping I'll die so he can marry my teen-aged daughter — who wants no part of him.

Am I a fool to stay with him? I truly love this skunk and sometimes think a few crumbs is better than nothing. Misery Loves Company

DEAR MISERY: Some women need a man around to make them miserable, and you certainly fills the bill, so if you "love" this skunk — hang on to him.

DEAR ABBY: To make a long story short, I am 24 and have three children. I am expecting my fourth very soon. My husband and I have been married for nearly five years. True, we didn't plan to have this many children so soon, but we wouldn't trade our family for the world.

My problem is what to say to people who make nasty remarks about our having so many children so fast. Relatives especially keep asking us what else we do for recreation? And don't we have a television set? And haven't we ever heard of the pill? It's really none of their business, but I wish you would give me a real clever come-back for their rude remarks. Young Mother remarks deserve to be ignored.

DEAR ABBY: I have six grandchildren all under six years of age and I dearly love them, but here is my problem. They all live within 10 miles of me so they visit very often, and when they do I cover my couch and chairs to protect them as these children aren't very careful where they put their feet and their hands aren't always clean.

One daughter in particular resents this and she hasn't been visiting me as often as she did. Her three-year-old who still wets his pants will do and sit anywhere if I don't watch him carefully because his mother has never told him he shouldn't.

Abby, I like to keep my furniture nice, but if you think I'm wrong to cover it when the youngsters come, I will stop it, because I don't want any hard feelings. Finicky Grandma

DEAR GRANDMA: I see nothing wrong with covering your furniture to protect it, and if your daughter does — shame on her.

DEAR ABBY: Those foolish women who wrote in to say that they wanted their husbands present to witness the birth of their babies should take a lesson from the animals.

Did you ever see a female dog or cat go looking for the "father" to keep her company when she is about to deliver her babies? Heavens, no! She goes to the most private corner she can find, and there she "hides" to have her babies in privacy. So help me, Abby, some animals have better sense than some people.

If a husband wants to be "in" on fatherhood, let him wait until he is really needed. He can start with the diaper detail, and be sure he's close to Mom when it comes time to raise the kids. Now there is something a woman can't do very well alone. Molly

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUR HEALTH:

Help for sufferers Of migraine is found

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN

Only sufferers of migraine headaches can really appreciate the hope that a new drug may soon be available to them. The intensity of these recurring one-sided headaches is so severe that it incapacitates victims and brings their activity to a standstill.

Although the cause is not really known, allergy and emotional upsets seem to be leaders in the field of speculation. What is known is that migraine may be related to sudden opening and closing of the major blood vessels to the brain. Almost always real migraine begins with flashes of light and odd sensations in the head and on the scalp, before the real headache sets in. Not all headaches are migraine even though there is a temptation to class all severe ones in that category.

Methysergide is one of the modern drugs tried for migraine with a moderate amount of success. There were some disadvantages and toxic reactions. Now a newer drug, somewhat related, known as BC-105, is under intense study because of its advantages over Methysergide. Dr. Robert Ryan of St. Louis University is doing an exhaustive study before the drug can be released to the general public.

Dr. Arnold P. Friedman of New York City, an outstanding contributor to the total study, diagnosis and control of headaches, is on constant alert for any drug that can be of value for all headaches. He wisely cautions against exaggerated claims and seeks

DR. BROTHERS:

Every family today has Material for writing book

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Do you sometimes think you could write a book on family affairs? If you've never quite gotten around to writing the book, but would like to compare notes with some experts who have written on the subject, here's an opportunity!

1. Tension in a child is usually related to tension in the parents. TRUE—FALSE

2. Although proper nutrition is vital to protect the physical health of the mother and her child, what she eats has no effect on the mental health of her unborn child. TRUE—FALSE

3. In a sense, it can be said that neurosis within a family unit can be infectious. TRUE—FALSE

4. A child's eating habits may reflect the mother's emotional state. TRUE—FALSE

5. Parents should use rather drastic means to prevent thumb sucking as it is likely to injure the mouth and teeth. TRUE—FALSE

6. Most creative, independent adults come from authoritarian homes.

TRUE—FALSE

7. Every parent must eventually choose between authoritarianism and anarchy in the home. TRUE—FALSE

SE—

8. Moral standards and ethics are usually formed in children during their adolescent years. TRUE—FALSE

ANSWERS

1. TRUE. As Dr. Robert Tharp points out, although all marriages have some tension, because no two people ever see situations in exactly the same way, studies show there is a significant relationship between the level of tension in the parents and the degree of childhood maladjustment.

2. FALSE. Children of mothers who have received varying amounts of vitamins prenatally show an 8-point superiority in I.Q. over children whose mothers have received placebos containing no vitamins. Had the supplements been given early rather than late in pregnancy the effects might have been even larger.

3. TRUE. Psychiatrist, Jan Ehrenwald, has pointed out that sick attitudes and actions can be transmitted and "caught." To what degree they can be caught is dependent upon the age in life that the exposure to sick attitudes began, and the length of time the person was exposed to such attitudes.

4. TRUE. Studies have shown that some babies refused food when fed by their own mothers who were anxious and in conflict, yet accepted the same food when it was fed to them by someone who was calm and relaxed.

5. FALSE. Child psychologist, Dr. Rhoda Lorand, feels that parents should try to relax about thumbsucking. All babies and many young children need to suck, and drastic means of curbing this can destroy their pleasure in eating and have psychologically damaging consequences.

effectiveness and safety in all new drugs before release to the public.

The headaches of modern civilization are great. The pressures will keep mounting unless people learn to sidetrack emotional stress and tensions. Tranquility is an excellent drug which is self-manufactured.

Speaking of your health: Facial tissues can be irritating to the skin around the nose during a cold. Keep the skin well lubricated.

Czech students also dislike old ideas

(Editor's Note: The following is part of a series written by an administrator at the University of Michigan following his latest visit to Czechoslovakia. The author, 30, asks that readers send books and other library materials duty-free to the Department of English, U1. Gresova 3, Presov, Czechoslovakia.)

By DONALD E. MILLER
I spent much of my time in Presov at the university. Czechoslovakian universities, like their counterparts in the United States, France and Japan, are in ferment. Students are in revolt against old ideas, the Establishment, the Russians. Students throughout the country were, in fact, in the vanguard of the Dubcek liberalization drive. They were in the front lines of those who fought the Russian invasion; they protest and demonstrate and agitate to this very day.

I learned that in Presov, university students had organized demonstrations and sit-ins, in protest against the Russian invasion and the large garrison of Soviet troops stationed in the city. During my visit, however, the university was comparatively quiet.

I had hoped, while in Presov, to talk with many people at the university. This I did. I remember in particular one young professor of English. I talked with him more about American problems than Czechoslovak problems for, as he exclaimed, "What is there, after all, to discuss about Czechoslovakian problems. Our future is settled, we have no choice. We never did. We go with Russia."

He was interested and curious about Vietnam, America's racial problems, America's attitude toward Russia and Czechoslovakia. But most of all, he showed his greatest interest — and he was the rule, not the exception — in the Kennedys, John, Robert, Jackie and Ted. Adulation of the Kennedys is not confined to the United States alone.

Although we spent some time talking about John and Ted Kennedy, his interest focused mostly on Robert Kennedy and Jackie. "Why?" he asked, "was he killed? He was a good man." This comment I heard at least six or seven times during my stay in Czechoslovakia.

Another of the people I met that day at the university, who made a great impression on me, was an administrative secretary, a woman in her 40s. She had little cause to love the Russians. Her father, a doctor, had been sent to Siberia by the Russians at the end of World War II and had come back in 1950 or 1951 a broken man. The Russian invasion for her was simply one more sad saga in her life sponsored by Russia. Still she radiated courage and humor. I admired her greatly.

TEEN DATELINE:

'Adonis' is humble guy

By ELE and WALT DULANEY

Dear Walt: I am handsome and I'm not conceited. It's just a fact. It comes from being born of my parents and is nothing I arranged.

I am glad I look like I do but I don't know what to say when someone tells me I'm handsome. Glen.

Dear Glen: Say, "Thank you very much," and go on with the conversation. If your complimenter insists on backtracking to the subject of your face, tell her or him, "Blame my parents; it's just heredity."—Walt.

Dear Ele and Walt: I have one friend who is very snooty about personal possessions. I have seen her go through the medicine closet of someone's house. She also looks in people's purses and reads all the labels in their clothes. Why does she do this and how can we stop her?—Rennie.

Dear Rennie: Your pal is hungry for details of the secret lives of others. What clues she ferrets out help her secure a feeling of power or give her the illusion she's really "in" and intimately involved in their lives.

Of course, this is all shadow play and her maneuvers secure only disgust, distrust and distance from the people she most wants to influence.

Strategy? We'd say ask the most diplomatic adult you know to counsel the girl. She needs perspective to see the why and the wherefore of her behavior in order to motivate a needed change.—Ele and Walt.

Dear Ele: Through a miracle I have a date to the junior prom. I am fat, have stringy hair and a bad complexion, so you see what I mean by "miracle." The boy knows me so he isn't being fooled.

What should I do if he changes his mind at the last minute? Is there any way to buy things so you can return them if they aren't used?—Elaine.

Dear Elaine: Avoid selecting a sleeveless or fitted gown. Instead, look for a flattering style that flows from shoulders to floor in loose billows.

If there are still a couple of weeks before the big night, visit the dermatologist (skin specialist) and follow his recommendations.

Entrust your hair to a professional stylist this time. Either show him your gown or a sketch of it and ask him to fix your hair in a flattering style.

Then, relax, knowing you never looked better and concentrate on putting your date at ease.

Be ready with a half-dozen questions about his major interests, but also be prepared to talk about things you care about. Then trust his good intentions.

If you must be a pessimist, keep these points in mind: 1) Purchase a dress that requires little or no alterations; 2) try on your shoes only when you're standing on a carpet and wearing clean nylons to insure that the shoes don't get soiled; 3) save all receipts.—Ele.

ARE YOU A UNION MEMBER IN THE WASHTENAW COUNTY AREA?

There is still time to register for a Workers Basic Study Program course

Is this question on your mind?

How can I learn more about basic unionism and stewardship?

How do I get to know more about building trades unionism and stewardship?

Why do people act the way they do?

How can I become more skilled at putting my ideas into words, or at conducting and participating in the meetings?

Where do I learn about laws affecting unions and workers?

How can I learn more about politics?

Relations with Peru may decline again

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A split in Peru's five-month-old revolutionary government appeared today to augur a further deterioration in the nation's already strained relations with the United States.

The split surfaced Friday with the resignation of Finance Minister Angel Valdivia from the Cabinet of generals. Reports circulated in the capital that Development Minister Alberto Maldonado and perhaps the directors of the state oil agency also were on their way out.

A U.S. Embassy official expressed dismay at the resignation of Valdivia, generally regarded as the most moderate and pro-

American member of the military regime. His departure is likely to result in a further hardening of the Peruvian position in the International Petroleum Co. controversy, the official said.

IPC, A Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey subsidiary, was expropriated by the government last October and has since been taken over by the state oil agency, Empresa Petrolera Fiscal (EPF).

President Juan Velasco has said that the expropriation and EPF takeover were solely internal affairs dealing with the settlement of an IPC debt. But Washington has threatened to cut off economic and military aid to Peru and halt purchases of Peruvian sugar if the Lima government refuses to compensate IPC.

Valdivia's moderating influence also may be missed when the government considers its reply to a U.S. demand for $50,000 damages inflicted on an American fishing boat by a Peruvian torpedo boat Feb. 14. One American craft was temporarily seized by Peru and another was hit by machine-gun fire during the incident.

The government is expected to consider the demand at a Cabinet meeting Tuesday, the day Prime Minister Ernesto Montagne says he will take up the matter of Valdivia's resignation.

Full day of rest Set for astronauts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 9 astronauts planned a full day of rest in their crew quarters today, hoping to shake their colds and receive a definite go-ahead for a Monday launching.

Doctors said they would make a decision by late afternoon whether the astronauts will be ready or whether the flight will have to be put off another day or two.

Launch officials want a firm go-ahead before they commit themselves to starting the final countdown at 10 p.m. on the Saturn 5 rocket and Apollo 9 spaceship.

Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart planned to spend the whole day in the comfortable moonport quarters five miles from the launch pad, devoting part of the time to studying their complex mission.

The quarters are equipped with television, books, stereo, kitchen and gymnasium.

The astronauts were to have soared into space on a 10-day earth orbit mission Friday, but were grounded by the colds. Estimated cost of the delay was $500,000.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, the space agency's director of medical operations, reported Friday night "the congestion and sore throats appear to be subsiding."

Berry, who long has argued that spacemen are overworked in the final weeks before a launching, ordered the weekend of rest for McDivitt, Scott and Schweickart.

"They're going to be the most well rested men we've ever sent up," Berry said.

Apollo 9 Mission Director George Hage said the crew training schedule probably would be modified for upcoming Apollo flights, which will become more demanding as the planned July moon landing date nears.

Defense minister wins Syrian power struggle

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Defense Minister Hafez Assad appeared to have come out on top in a bloodless power struggle in Syria, informed sources said today.

President Nouredin Atassi and Gen. Salah Jadid, until now the real power behind the ruling Baath Socialist party, appear to have lost out, the sources said.

But reports saying the two men have been arrested by Assad were described as "exaggerated."

Cars may Need waste Receptacles

LANSING (AP)—An ash tray won't do.

Cars manufactured after Jan. 1, 1971, would have to have some type of waste receptacle too, under terms of legislation introduced by Rep. Lucille McCollough, D-Deerborn.

"Opponents may say that equipping cars with waste receptacles would be expensive, but it would not be as expensive as it is cleaning up roadside litter," Mrs. McCollough said.

"The state spends great amounts of money each year picking up litter along the highways," she added. "We could use that money in better ways."

Similar legislation introduced last year failed to make it to the House floor for a vote.

There was no official word on their whereabouts.

Damascus Radio did not report any changes, omitting news of Syria in its morning news casts.

Damascus appeared normal. Syrians were winding up the Moslem Bairam feast. Troops were guarding key installations, but this has become normal in Syria since the June 1967 war.

The sources reported no military units were used in the dispute which apparently occurred within the framework of the party of which Assad is a leading member.

There were no reports that any of the three protagonists suffered a change of post. Assad, besides being defense minister, is also commander of the air force, which lost two planes in dogfights with Israeli jets on Monday.

The exact nature of the differences between the three men were not known. But since last October the Middle East has buzzed with rumors that a showdown was imminent between Assad and the two party men.

Atassi is secretary general of the party and Jadid holds the title of assistant secretary general, but he wielded more power than the president.

Following the last party congress in October, it became evident that Assad was making his weight felt. The defense minister is believed to want more fighting and less talking about Israel. But at the same time, he wants less reliance on the Soviet Union, Syria's arms supplier.

Paris sends fashion predictions

This tailored plaid suit by Dior and splashy silk cocktail gown, both of mini-skirt length, are among fashions that might well influence fashions in coming seasons in the United States. The Paris fashions were among spring and summer togs for which photographs were released today by the designers. The green and white suit is worn with white turtleneck blouse, shoes and mesh hose. The gown, black, brown and orange by Pierre Cardin, is worn over skin-colored tights with white silk shoes. (AP Photos)

Trooper
To marry
In August

Miss Susan A. Pike of Bay City will become the bride of Michael R. Swope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Swope, Jr., of 7093 Merritt Rd. Swope is a state trooper at the Bay City post.

Miss Pike's engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Pike of Bay City.

She is a 1965 graduate of St. Mary's High School in Bay City and attended Delta College and Northeastern Business College. She is a secretary with the Social Security office in Bay City.

Mr. Swope, a 1963 graduate of Lincoln Consolidated High School, served four years with the United States Air Force before entering the State

An August 9 wedding is being planned.

MRS. C. LEE WOODLEY
(The former Miss Margaret M. Cunningham)New York honeymoon follows
Cunningham-Woodley wedding

A New York wedding trip followed the wedding of Miss Margaret M. Cunningham and C. Lee Woodley in St. Ursula's Catholic Church.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. James D. Cunningham of 728 Cambridge Rd. and Mr. and Mrs. Ruben C. Woodley of 545 E. Grand Blvd.

After their 3 p.m. wedding ceremony solemnized by the Rev. Fr. Mitchell J. Bednarski in St. Ursula's Catholic Church last Saturday, the newlyweds had their reception and dance at the VFW Hall in Romulus.

They spent four days in New York City and are living with the bride's parents. The bridegroom expects to enter the Air Force March 12.

For her wedding, the bride wore a princess gown of cloud white faille. Its bodice was trimmed with a jeweled neckline and each wrist-length sleeve was edged in a ruffle of re-embroidered Alencon lace. A chapel length train was attached to the gown and a floor length veil was caught to a double crown of Alencon lace. She carried stephanotis and baby's breath.

Her attendants wore Victorian gowns of sky blue satin styled with jeweled necklines and wrist length bishop sleeves edged in matching silk braid. Their headpieces were blue bows with purple violets and their bouquets were purple violet nosegays.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Patrick Pietrzak of Ann Arbor was matron of honor and the bridegroom's sister, Donna, and the Misses Sharon Hopper, Johnie Hazelett and Linda Baird were bridesmaids.

Tom Kent was best man. Ushers were Mr. Pietrzak and Don Stewart, both brothers-in-law. Jerry McCoy, and the bridegroom's brother, Randy.

Fluoride aid slated

Topical fluoride treatments will again be available to Ypsilanti area children this summer.

This year, the treatments are recommended for children in the fifth and eighth grades in Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township, and for three age groups in Superior Township.

Last year the program, which is sponsored each year by the Jaycees Auxiliary, saw treatments given to 300 children.

In the ten years the clinics have been given under guidance of the State Health Department, 4800 children have received the treatments.

Enrollments will begin on Monday and will be taken until March 14. The fee of $3.50 a child, is payable by the March 14 deadline.

Parents are being urged to enroll their youngsters if they come within the recommended age groups. The recommendations are those of the State Health Department, and allow for a spacing of three years between treatments. The treatments are suggested for those youngsters whose teeth — whether primary or secondary teeth — were not yet in when fluoridation of water was begun. Fluoridation began in Ypsilanti in 1964 and in the township in 1965.

Those parents in Superior Township or any other area where water comes from wells and is unfluoridated may enroll their youngsters in three age groups: three year olds, four year olds and second graders. Families who have moved here within the last year or two from places where water was unfluoridated, may also enroll three and four year olds and second graders. These ages are chosen for not having fluoridated water when teeth were being formed.

Treatments consist of a dental inspection, cleaning and four applications of fluoride given a day or two apart. They will be given at Central Elementary School at 304 W. Forest Ave.

More detailed information will be sent home from school with students next week and information may be obtained from Mrs. Maxe A. Obermeyer at 483-3063.

Miss Cornelia Everard, nurse in the Ypsilanti School

Health Service, and Mrs. Obermeyer, chairman of the fluoride program for the Jaycee Auxiliary, are working together on arrangements.

The program is usually a self-sustaining one with the fees covering cost of the dental student who gives treatments and an aide, Mrs. Obermeyer explains. It is part of the auxiliary's dental effort, which includes dental care for needy children paid for from auxiliary benefit projects.

New piano is guild project

A new spinet piano, the first one for the 25-year-old Faith Lutheran Church, has been installed by the church Women's Guild for Sunday School and other activities to supplement the organ music. The women are staging a group of fund-raising events for the piano's time payments. They will include baked goods and candy sales with the March 14 rummage sale at the Legion Hall. Mrs. Earl L. HELOISE'S HINTS

Fish bowl holds flour

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: Perhaps many of your readers, like myself, are tired of rather expensive but not-so-functional canisters that chip, get dented and are never quite the right size for your needs. Also, I have always disliked struggling to get the lids off and not being able to see how much flour, sugar or whatever is left in the container.

I finally bought two round, flat-sided glass fish bowls. The medium size holds more than five pounds of flour or sugar with plenty of room for a scoop. A plastic lid from a two-pound coffee can exactly fits on top.

The small size I use for coffee or tea with a plastic lid from a one-pound coffee can. The largest size will hold ten pounds of flour (if you have that much cupboard space) and a three-pound lid fits it perfectly.

These coffee can lids did not fit all the glass fish bowls I saw while shopping, but they did fit the ones I bought.

I have used these bowls for years and enjoy them because they can be tilted for removing contents, and I can see just how much is left.

Although I have broken one or two over a period of years, they are inexpensively replaced. Gretchen T.

Oh, Gretchen, you're the queen of hearts in my deck! This is a super-duper idea. I wish I had thought of it myself before buying my last canister set.

We all thank you many times over. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Have you ever wondered what to do with the commode cover when the matching rug has worn out and you get a new bath set?

Well, I found that it makes a nifty bathroom scale cover. Just tie it around the scale and cut a piece out to display the numbers. Glue the corners if needed.

Mine looks just great! Pat Smith

DEAR HELOISE: As we eat rabbit a great deal at our home, here's the way all of us love them cooked... with no "rabbit" taste remaining.

After I cut them up, I start them in cold water with a quarter cup of baking soda and the same amount of salt. Bring to a boil and cook five minutes.

Drain and let cold water run over them a few minutes, then start cooking 'em in fresh, cold water again and cook for a couple of hours until tender.

Now they're ready to be finished any way you like.

Our family likes it barbecued best, so I blend tomato sauce and barbecue sauce together, pour over the meat and bake only enough to make the sauce hot.

They're delish! Mrs. Leonard Buys

"Green beanie" night for the Women of the Moose on Wednesday evening drew many members from other chapters and also husbands of local members for the open meeting at the Moose Hall.

The program honored the chapter's junior graduate regent, Mrs. John P. Barrett who last year headed the women's organization.

Mrs. John D. Snelling was presiding chairman for the evening for which members from outside chapters presided in various chairs.

Forty four members of the Ypsilanti chapter were present, with 36 members from chapters in surrounding communities and eleven men of the Loyal Order of the Moose.

Two new members who were installed are Mrs. Howard Stout, who was sponsored by Mrs. Florence Hiler, and Mrs. Keith Metty, sponsored by Mrs. Douglas Metty, her daughter-in-law. Three women without a family member affiliated with the Moose Lodge were admitted as "home chapter" members. They are Mrs. Lula Buck, Mrs. Hazel Roberts and Mrs. Ruby Cobb.

Mrs. Dorothy DeVenney Marshall, deputy grand regent was present for the special occasion for Mrs. Barrett, and many other members who hold the "green beanie" award were present.

Mrs. Barrett has three generations in the Women of the Moose, herself, her daughter, Mrs. Jack Wright, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Darrell Waterberry.

Lunch was served later at tables decorated in green beanie nut cups and green candles. The committee was chaired by Mrs. John A. McGee.

In party reform:

Chicago shadow
Haunting Dems

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The grim shadow of Chicago hung over the Democratic National Committee today as it launched efforts to reform party structure with a plea to Republicans to do the same.

Sen. Fred Harris, the Democratic national chairman, made the plea in remarks prepared for the first meeting of Sen. George S. McGovern's commission to revamp delegate selection procedures for future Democratic national conventions.

"I think that the work of the McGovern commission can be specifically enhanced," said Harris, "if we can establish a bipartisan effort which would win us support from the Republicans at the state legislative level in cases where state laws must be adjusted in order to democratize the political party processes."

He added that Republican aid also would "help secure nonpartisan funds to further the necessary studies."

Harris said he had received a letter from Republican chairman Ray C. Bliss, who is resigning in April, saying the request for a GOP counterpart to the McGovern commission would be turned over to his successor.

Meanwhile, Harris said, the Democrats will proceed alone.

McGovern told the commission he had taken the job of chairman "because I do not ever again want to see another convention like the one in 1968." The South Dakota Democrat noted that "despite its turbulence," last year's convention at Chicago did adopt "far-reaching reform resolutions."

"We shall carry out this mandate, not by flailing at each other, and not by identifying heroes and villains, but by appealing to reason and our sense of justice," McGovern said in his prepared speech.

The senator added: "But this does not suggest that we will be weakened on the hard questions of political reform. We have a clear mandate to fulfill without weakening either its letter or spirit."

He said the convention directed reform to stop premature selection of delegates to the national convention, bar the unit rule, and remove roadblocks to full citizen participation in party affairs.

"The convention has told us something is fundamentally wrong with our party," McGovern said.

Harris is reported to have given McGovern assurances the national committee will provide some funds for the 27-member commission's work. It will likely decide to raise additional money on its own.

Oil is still flowing
Off Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A month after an offshore well blew out, crude oil—nobody can say how much—continues to ooze into the Pacific Ocean, fouling water and beaches up to 90 miles away.

While Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel in Washington urged tough new legislation Friday to prevent offshore oil pollution, workers on a drilling platform in the Santa Barbara Channel tried to plug a new, puzzling leak.

"There is so much oil that has been deposited in the channel over the last weeks that there is no way to really separate which leak this slick is from and which leak another is from," said a Coast Guard spokesman.

When a Union Oil Co. well blew out on Jan. 28 it spewed an estimated 21,000 gallons a day into the channel until it was plugged 11 days later. A much smaller flow continued.

Hoping to relieve gas pressure they thought was causing the residual flow, drillers began pumping a nearby well.

Last Tuesday the second well began leaking more than 4,000 gallons a day, the company estimated. Two days later the company said the flow was vastly reduced. Some observers said it had stopped.

Thursday night oil began surfacing again and by Friday night some observers said the resulting slick was 1,000 yards wide and three miles long. There were no estimates of the flow.

The company plans to pour thousands of gallons of a heavy drilling mud mixture 3,000 feet into the well to plug it. It used the same technique to stem the flow of the first well.

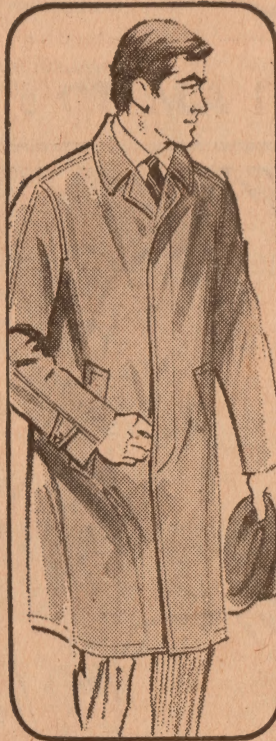

As far south as Los Angeles beachgoers walked on oil-spattered sand. Thousands of water birds have died in the ooze.

In calling for new laws, Hickel said oil companies should be regulated more closely and the federal government should do more offshore testing instead of relying on industry's sampling. Santa Barbara officials have been trying to clean up the ooze by spraying oil dispersant chemicals and water, then raking the tar-soaked piles.

The city's parks superintendent, Michel Pahos said, "Even if the leakage was stopped today, no one can know whether it will take three months, six months or even five years to get our beaches back to where they were."

No investigation set
In Ferris State battle

BIG RAPIDS (AP) — Ferris State College President Victor F. Spathelf says he does not intend to form any special faculty or student groups to investigate the battle which erupted between black and white students on campus Thursday night.

Spathelf said Friday the college has been maintaining a continuous study of recent student incidents, and added he saw no need for any change in policy.

He said State Police detectives were investigating the outbreak in which more than a dozen students sustained minor injuries and one student was arrested for carrying a concealed weapon.

"We have not been able to substantiate totally the incident," he said.

"There was violence. I was there," he added. "I saw it. This cannot be denied."

But Spathelf claimed the "attitude of the campus is really quite tolerant."

Man killed as Bus hits press

ACME (AP) — A 66-year old Elk Rapids man, Peter Ruppenhal, died Friday when his minibus crashed head-on into a seven-ton injection press that had fallen off a truck. The accident took place on U.S. 31 on the outskirts of Acme in Grand Traverse County.

Police said the press was on a flat-bed truck driven by 49-year old Harlan Wilcox of Elk Rapids. Wilcox stopped for a car making a left turn in front of him and the press fell off into the oncoming lane.

The college, has a total enrollment of 8,000, including 360 Negroes.

Spathelf said he had received information of more than six so-called jumping incidents over the past few months, which involved both black and white students.

But he said, "We cannot verify these, but any reports of course fan the rumor mill."

Spathelf met with Leon Atchison, an administrative assistant for Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., and some 40 black students in the student center Friday night and reviewed the events of the previous night.

The points cited by the black delegation concerning the outbreak were:

—An administrative staffer allegedly told the white students to throw the blacks out of dormitories.

—Some students were carrying firearms.

—A security force employee made a derogatory remark about the black students during the outbreak.

The black students also demanded more liberal policy permitting students to live off campus and the hiring of black faculty members.

The faculty does not have a black staff member.

Regarding the citing by blacks of weapons, Spathelf said, there is "no substantiation to this point by the security force."

He promised the other allegations would be reviewed.

When the investigation is completed, Spathelf said, "I'm going to be just as fair as I know how to possibly be."

Boy wouldn't talk

By ELIAS LIEBERMAN
Educator and author,
Richmond Hill, New York

In 1906, I was a young and inexperienced teacher in an elementary school located on the lower East Side of New York City. At the start of the February term, I found myself assigned to a sixth-grade class of boys, including several pupils who had not been promoted.

One student interested me particularly. Samuel Null was a boy who shrugged off my simplest questions without any attempt to answer them. His intelligent — but sad — brown eyes had a baffling glint of humor in them at times. Determined to find out whether he was as slow as his last term's teacher believed, I asked him to see me after school.

"Samuel," I asked, "can you talk?"

The classroom was empty except for us, but he looked around fearfully. I smiled encouragingly.

"Yes," he finally replied.

"Did you know the answers to the questions I asked you today?"

He had evidently decided to trust me. Again he said, "Yes."

Probing further, I learned that Samuel had come to us recently from the Whitechapel section of London. He spoke with a marked cockney accent and, to some of his classmates, this had made him an object of derision and petty persecution. He had made up his mind that silence was to be his protection. No talking, no abuse.

The very next day I explained to my class that people from all over the world came to our shores as immigrants, to enjoy the blessings of freedom denied them in other countries.

I told them that it took foreigners a long time to master the English language and that their own parents were probably among such newcomers — hard-working men and women who sought a new life in a new country.

"Is it right to laugh at them because their speech is still imperfect? Is it just or kind to hurt their feelings in this way?" I asked.

My pupils looked indignant at the very thought of such mockery. It was easy for me to tell them that Samuel was a bright boy, that he spoke English with an accent common in London — an accent he would soon lose — and that I for one meant to be his friend and help him.

"How many of you," I asked, "want to be his friend?"

Hands shot up everywhere, and an aura of kindness brightened the room. Samuel's scholarship achievements that term put him at the top of my promotion list. Later at the University Settlement, a local institution for social service to children and adults, he joined a club which I, as a volunteer worker, directed.

Step by step I watched him develop qualities of leadership and become a good influence among his classmates. A fine sense of integrity, guided by initiative and keen intelligence, made him popular with fellow members.

A teacher is not always privileged to see, as I was, the after-effects of his judgment. With the passing years, I saw Samuel as a young lawyer rise rung by rung up the ladder of success. His special interests were in labor-management relations and the promotion of clean politics.

When ultimately he was nominated for the high post of supreme court judge in the State of New York he was swept into office by an enthusiastic following.

Suppose I, too, had misjudged the boy who wouldn't talk? It is just possible that in his frustration, and in his resentment for schools and for a society intent on hurting him, he might have turned his wonderful intelligence into destructive rather than constructive channels.

To us in the whirligig world of adults where snap judgments are made daily and the full consequences of which cannot be estimated we need to pray:

"Grant, O Lord, that I may see

In my neighbor, a bit of Thee."

School testing meet Scheduled next week

The ninth annual Michigan School Testing Conference, sponsored by the University of Michigan's Bureau of School Services, will be held in Ann Arbor Tuesday and Wednesday.

The conference's general session on Wednesday will feature Dr. Ralph Tyler, founder of the U-M Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, speaking on "The Impact of Testing on Student Development."

Also scheduled to speak at the general session are Dr. Norman Drachler, superintendent of Detroit public schools; Robert Lundy, director of guidance of Portage public schools; and Dr. Ted Ward of Michigan State University.

Following the general session, clinic sessions will be held for discussion of conference topics.

Persons interested in attending the conference should contact the Conference Office of the University of Michigan, 412 Maynard St., in Ann Arbor.

Ypsilanti High undefeated again

By BARRY LEVINE

DEARBORN — Before the game the Ypsilanti High fans drew no opposition when they began chanting, "We're number one, we're number one."

When they started it the second time, during the last minute of the game, no one in the entire city of Dearborn could have doubted them.

The Braves had just run rampant over an inspired but convincingly outmanned Dearborn Edsel Ford squad, 82-54. It was the 41st consecutive regular season victory for Ypsilanti High. For the second straight year, the Braves have gone through the regular campaign undefeated.

Ypsilanti High now has the longest winning streak (with Muskegon) among the state's Class A teams this season, and the 41 wins represents the longest string of its kind among all state schools.

The rout gives the Braves a final mark of 16-0 and 8-0 in the Sauk Trail Conference, the same as last year. It's the third straight undefeated conference year for Dick Ouellette's quintet, going back to the old Huron League.

Ypsilanti High took charge immediately in the game, racing to a 23-7 lead in the first quarter. The Thunderbirds tried to make a game of it in the second period, getting the first 11 points and cutting the lead to 23-16 and then 27-24 before the Braves pulled together. The Ypsilanti High cagers then fired in 11 straight and left the floor at the half with a 15-point cushion.

The Braves played most of the game like the top team people tout them as, and everyone seemed pleased with the win.

Head Coach Ouellette felt it was especially gratifying because "... the kids have now met the first part of their goal." That is, to go through the regular season unscathed. The other, obviously, is the state championship, which barely eluded them last season.

Ouellette was also happy to see the Braves toughen up when the Thunderbirds got hot at the beginning of the second quarter.

In the second half the Braves started all over, hitting the first seven points and quickly eliminating any thoughts Edsel Ford had of closing the gap. They worked more of an offense, continually moving in and around the lane and picking up the good shot.

The format proved valuable in rebounding, too, as the Braves captured a 32-16 advantage in the half, as opposed to a 23-22 deficit prior to intermission. Bob Rhodin and Robin Raymond had 11 grabs each.

Ypsilanti High was led by the fine shooting of senior forward Joe Frye, who hit on 10 of 18 from the floor and added a free throw for 21 points. He scored six of the Braves' first eight points and was commended by his coach for "... an excellent game."

The Braves now turn their attention to the state tourney and the only mountain they have yet to conquer. District play will begin Thursday at 8:45 p.m. at Eastern Michigan's Bowen Field House against Inkster Cherry Hill.

In the other league game last night, Wayne Memorial gained a tie for fourth place with a 72-65 win over Dearborn. Both teams finished the league schedule with a 2-6 mark, one game behind Melvindale.

The Ypsilanti High junior varsity closed out its season on a winning note, 69-61, over the Thunderbirds' junior varsity. Paul Hoagbin with 12 points and Wayne Greene with 10 gave the Braves their 11th win against five losses.

Zebras find Range, trip Dearborn

WAYNE — For the first time since early in January, Wayne Memorial put on its scoring suits, and fired away for a 72-65 win over Dearborn last night.

The victory, the Zebras' fifth in 16 games this season, moves them into a fourth place tie with the Pioneers in the Sauk Trail League. Each has a mark of 2-6 against conference foes.

The Zebras had one of their most balanced scoring attacks with three players hitting double figures. Junior Don Bates continues to be impressive at center as he took game honors with 18 points.

Mike Davis added 13 and Bob Howard, 11, for Wayne Memorial. The Zebras' leading scorer, Ron Daniels, finished the game with eight points after spending the first half on the bench for disciplinary reasons.

In the other league contest last night, Ypsilanti High made it three straight undefeated conference seasons with an easy 82-54 win over Dearborn Edsel Ford.

In the preliminary game Dearborn's junior varsity got by the Zebras, 58-46, despite 12 points by Rick Fidh.

'Crazy Legs' Takes over

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch accepted the job as athletic director at the University of Wisconsin Friday, then promised a "crash program" to rebuild the school's sagging football fortunes.

Hirsch, a former football star with Wisconsin and the Los Angeles Rams, said major changes would be made in the athletic department.

"I'm not here to win a popularity contest," he said. "We're going to have the best people at the right spots."

He succeeds the late Ivan B. Williamson and takes over the post today.

Hirsch's contract includes five years as athletic director, plus a subsequent five-year term either as athletic director or in a "mutually acceptable role."

To take the Wisconsin post, Hirsch left what he called a "lifetime job" as assistant to Rams' president Dan Reeves. He said he had "security and a good job, but it was like treading water."

BELLEVILLE — The pee-wees did their thing at halftime.

It afforded Belleville's basketball Tigers the opportunity to catch their breath. Then they did their thing with a hustling, but tiring, trap defense and sent Redford Union to a 63-54 Suburban Six Association defeat.

Bullets Pepper Pistons

Detroit's Hap Hairston was hit in the head, Otto Moore in the eye and Terry Dischinger in the nose.

But it was just a barrel of laughs for Baltimore as the Bullets even put in their assistant coach, Bob Ferry, as they waltzed to a 134-116 National Basketball Association win over Detroit Friday night.

The victory enabled the Bullets to maintain their 3½ game lead in the NBA's Eastern Division.

In other NBA action Friday night, Philadelphia whipped Milwaukee, 138-102; Boston tripped Atlanta 122-120 on Sam Jones' basket with five seconds remaining; Los Angeles edged Phoenix 121-117, and San Francisco downed Cincinnati 131-115.

In the American Basketball Association, Miami edged the New York Nets 124-120 in overtime and Kentucky beat Dallas 124-118 in overtime.

In the game at the Motor City, Kevi Loughery made the first basket about five seconds into the game and Baltimore never trailed.

Loughery, with 29 points, and Earl Monroe with 23, paced the Bullets, who now have won nine of their last 11 games. Dave Bing had 34 points for the Pistons, who have won just four of their last 16.

Other league frays last night had champion Plymouth bombing Livonia Bentley, 61-44, and Allen Park taking measure of Trenton, 52-43. Redford Union and Bentley thus remained deadlocked for second place while Belleville and Allen Park tied for fourth in the final standings.

Al Gates cooked up a special defense for his Tigers to use against the Panthers. It was a trapping zone with so much trapping that the zone aspect was sometimes almost completely nonexistent.

The only hitch was that it took the wind out of Gates' own players. They faltered just short of the intermission and trailed at the break, 31-26.

Good fortune was a pee-wee all-star game slated for the halftime. It considerably lengthened the break, and when Belleville's varsity cagers re-entered the spotlight, they were ready to go.

The Tigers pumped in the first eight points of the second half, taking a lead they refused to relinquish. They were all over the floor on defense, forcing turnovers and rattling the Redford Union attack.

Belleville outscored the guest Panthers, 17-9, in the third quarter with Norm Harrington chipping in eight points and Bob Fowlkes, five. Fowlkes, with 14 rebounds, was the pacer for the Tigers in the carom department as they outdid Redford Union, 43-27.

The finishing touch was the fourth quarter, when Belleville tallied 20 points to the visitors' 14.

John Yocum was a star of the early going, hitting for 10 of Belleville's first 16 points — markers that kept the Tigers in the game.

Belleville thus advanced its league record to 4-6 and its over-all mark to 5-11.

Piscopink-less St. Mary's '5' Loses, 74-67

WESTLAND —Playing without the services of co-captains Matt Piscopink and George Belvitch put a crimp in the tactics of Wayne St. Mary's. And the Blue Knights turned on the after-burner in their patched-up offense too late in a 74-67 loss to Riverview Gabriel Richard here last night.

Piscopink, the area's leading scorer, sprained his ankle last night, and Belvitch has been out since last Thursday with a similar injury.

St. Mary's spotted Richard a nine-point lead, spent the rest of the game trying to catch up and came within an ace of doing just that.

Richard had to go into a semi-stall to preserve the victory after St. Mary's had overcome a late 14-point deficit.

Both teams alternated zone and pressing defenses, and it was Richard's strength on boards that spelled the difference. Richard came to play a fast-breaking offense and used its height advantage to key the break. Over half of Richard's 74 points came on the break with the forward line of Dave Dulinba, Biff Tyrna and guard Mike Hartrant accounting for 62 of the total.

Tommy Aaron Leads Doral

MIAMI (AP) — Tommy Aaron has won more than $250,000 on the professional golf tour but after nine years of trying he has yet to savor the taste of victory.

"It's a long time since I've tied for the lead in a tournament," the 32-year-old Georgian said Friday after firing a 68 to share the first spot at nine-under-par 135 at the halfway mark of the $150,000 Doral Open.

"They say it's easier to win when you've won one," he said, "but I don't know how that feels."

Willow Run defeated By Cosmos, 68-63

Willow Run ended regular season play last night with a 68-63 loss to Hamtramck in a fashion that has haunted the defending Class B state champions all year.

"The game was ours for the taking, and we just couldn't take it," said Flyer Coach Fred Thomann. "We had all the chances and couldn't cash in."

The Flyers staged two determined come-back drives to catch the hustling visitors but faltered and let victory slip away.

Hamtramck jumped into a first-period lead and the Flyers staged a drive in the second period that put them up by a single point with seconds to go before intermission. The Lancers scored a go-ahead basket to take a 36-35 lead into the dressing room, but it still looked like the momentum was with the Flyers.

The third period was a duplicate of the first, Hamtramck pulling away by as much as eight points midway in the quarter. But the Flyers again came back and went ahead, 63-61, with 1:30 to go as Manual Wilson hit a one-hander.

The lead was shortlived, however, as the Lancers knotted the score on the exchange.

With the game in the balance Willow Run missed its chance to go ahead on a bad shot. The Lancers took the ball down court and Winbush, a substitute guard, was fouled while making a field goal.

He converted the free throw to give the Lancers a 66-63 lead and the Flyers couldn't muster the punch to come back a third time.

Free throws played a part as the Flyers converted only 17 of 31 tries from the charity stripe. They missed their first nine attempts.

The Flyers dominated the rebounding until the last quarter.

Willow Run had four players in double figures, led by James Gatewood's 18 points. Wilbert Gardette had 13, James Whitfield 12 and Leonard Ethington 10.

The Flyers' junior varsity defeated Hamtramck, 73-69, as Cameron Cheeks and Adrian Wilson netted 16 points and Willie Thomas added 14.

Badgers in CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Wisconsin, after dominating the preliminaries, appeared a shoo-in Saturday for its third straight Big Ten indoor track championship.

The Badgers, led by defending champions Ray Arrington in the 880 and Mike Butler in both hurdles, plus sophomore Mark Winzenried and a stockpile of depth, qualified for 11 places for the finals in Friday night's opening phase.

Michigan and Michigan State each landed five berths and Indiana four. Purdue, Ohio State, Iowa, Illinois and Northwestern each took two and Minnesota one.

One championship was decided, leaving 15 to be determined Saturday afternoon at Illinois' Armory.

Tim Wood brings Title back to U.S.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — "This was the best performance of my life." It was tall Tim Wood of Detroit speaking in his hour of finest triumph on the ice.

He had just won the men's crown in the World Figure Skating Championships before a shouting crowd in the Broadmoor Arena. The 20-year-old prelaw student from John Carroll University in Cleveland fetched the world title back to this country for the first time since 1959 when David Jenkins completed a string of three straight victories.

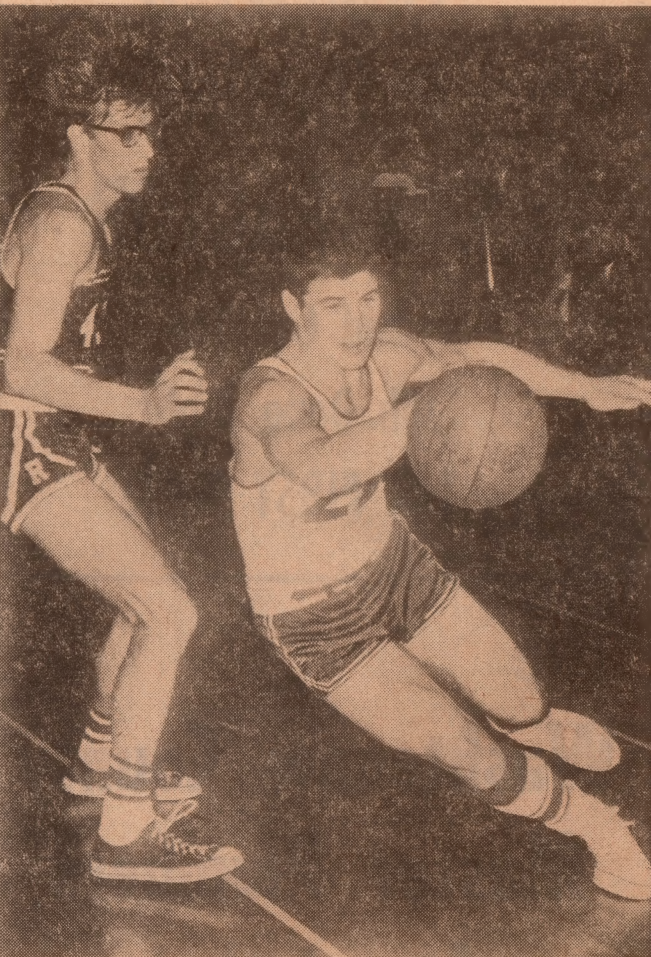

The black-haired youngster mixed triple loops with split jumps and split flips Friday night to win first-place votes from all nine judges, just as he did in the compulsory figures. Wood's total score for three days of skating was 2,894.5 points to 2,703.3 for 18-year-old Ondrej Nepela, the European champion from Czechoslovakia in second place.

The perpetually smiling Patrick Pera of France gained the third spot with 2,684.6 points.

Behind him came two more Americans. Gary Visconti, former national champion making perhaps his last appearance in world competition, was fourth. He was just a hair ahead of 17-year-old John Misha Petevich of Great Falls, Mont., one of this country's brightest hopes for the 1972 Winter Olympics.

Big Reds grab league crown

DUNDEE — Milan clinched its second southeastern Conference title with a 62-59 victory last night over Dundee, but this year the Big Reds won't be sharing it with anyone.

Last year Milan shared the title with Saline.

Jerry Markham sparked the winners with 22 points and 11 rebounds in his last regular season game for Milan, but it was the work of Ron Outland and Bob Barrett that made the victory complete.

Outland and Barrett were assigned to stop the high-scoring duo of Mike Curley and Ken Busch. They came through by holding the pair to just 17 points.

Dundee started the game with a determined rush and jumped into a 14-13 lead at the end of the first period, but the Big Reds took command after three minutes of the second on baskets by Outland and Markham.

Dundee managed a brief rally in the last period when, with two minutes to go and down by 10 points, the Vikings crept to within five points.

Outland's 14 points gave the Big Reds their only other player in double figures. Delbert Gregory led all scorers with 29 points and captured rebounding honors with 27 grabs.

Milan's Little Reds finished their best season of all time with an 89-70 victory over the Dundee junior varsity. The Little Reds won 16 games and lost but one. Dan Keller hit 18 points, Jeff Blake added 16 and Roy Shidis and Ricky Birch had 12 each.

Warriors lose finale To Lorain, 109-98

LORAIN, Ohio — A hot hand from the free throw line helped lift Lorain County Community College to a 109-98 basketball victory over Washtenaw Community College here last night.

The host team connected on 33 of 43 attempts from the line — a stellar 77 per cent — to overcome an 82-76 scoring deficit from the field.

Three players did most of the damage, combining for 78 of Lorain's points. Jerry Jones sparked the Ohioans before the intermission, tallying 20 of his 26 points. After the half, Jerry Rowland and Greg Pietch picked up the tempo and finished with 29 and 23 markers, respectively.

Coach Larry Slepky's Warriors put up a valiant struggle before falling to defeat. They trailed most of the way, but by never more than 12 points. And at the mid-point of the second half, they actually snatched the lead briefly, by 3 points.

Percy Wright closed out his cage career at Washtenaw with what Slepky felt was a commendable performance. He not only rebounded well, but topped the Warriors in scoring with 26 points before fouling out.

Greg Berklich chipped in 21 points and John Tigner, 23, in this season-ending battle for Washtenaw. The Warriors finished with a 12-12 record.

Saline defeats Lincoln With late free throws

SALINE — A 26-point fourth quarter brought Saline from apparent defeat to a 64-60 win over Lincoln last night.

The victory gives the Hornets a fifth place tie with Lincoln in the Southeastern Conference. Both teams are 5-7 in the league. The Railsplitters concluded the campaign with an over-all mark of 7-9 while Saline was 5-11.

The Railsplitters hit on 28 of 61 shots from the floor but obviously lost the game at the foul line, making only four of 15 attempts. Saline converted 24 of 36 free throws.

Lincoln was in foul trouble most of the way and lost James Buntun early in the final quarter and Marcel Hardeman a few minutes later.

Saline was forced to come from behind after the Railsplitters had poured through a season-high of 27 points in the second period. Hardeman hit five of his 10 baskets and Fred Hargrove added seven of his nine points in the quarter. Saline's Tom Burr took game honors with 23 points including 13 free throws.

The Hornets will now prepare to face defending Class B state champion Willow Run in the first round of district play Tuesday night. Wednesday night at Saline, Lincoln will tangle with Tecumseh in its first turn-out game.

In other league play last night Milan won the conference title with a 62-59 win over third place Dundee. Dexter finished second, one game behind the Big Reds, with a 75-70 victory over Chelsea.

Saline's junior varsity made it a clean sweep last night with a 71-63 win over the Railsplitters' junior varsity despite an 18-point effort by both Keith Stettler and Delbert Walton. The Hornets' Pete Slepky took game honors with 19 points in leading his team to a second place conference finish.

Crusaders Win fourth Straight

SOUTHGATE — Steve Kruzel his double figures for an encore.

His main act here last night consisted of holding down Aquinas' top scorer, leading St. John's in rebounding and making the Crusaders' fast break go.

And with the senior forward performing in this best-of-the-year manner, St. John's "breezed" to a 64-62 season-closing basketball victory over the Southgate-based quintet.

Kruzel, who finished with 10 points, snared 12 rebounds and held high-scoring Jim Izzo to 15 points, teamed with Bob Sutton at the game's outset as St. John's took command. Sutton scored seven points and Kruzel, six, to pace the Crusaders to a 24-13 quarter lead.

During that stretch, the local squad fired in a sizzling 11 of 14 field goal attempts and led in rebounding, 11-5.

A sharply-executed full-court press, meanwhile, was forcing Aquinas into abundant turnovers. They erred 19 times before the intermission.

After the early burst, it wasn't a close game, despite the final margin of only two points. St. John's built its advantage to as many as 16 points in the third quarter and merely coasted to the decision.

The victory was the seventh in 18 games for Coach Gary Davis' charges. More important, it was their fourth consecutive triumph and gives them that all-important momentum entering next week's district tournament at Bowen Field House.

Al Kaline holding out for first time

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — "I've never been a holdout and I'd hate to start now," said Al Kaline Friday in the Detroit Tigers spring training clubhouse at Marchant Stadium.

But there's a first time for everything, even for a 16-year veteran like Kaline, and today he became a holdout along with first baseman Norm Cash and outfielder Willie Horton.

"I think it'll be a couple days before I sign, but I hope it's done before March 1," Kaline said, apparently un-mindful that February was about to come to an end two or three days sooner than the other months of the year.

General Manager Jim Campbell spoke briefly with Kaline Friday when the star right fielder dropped by the stadium to watch the team take part in a 2½-hour practice.

"We haven't really had any time to talk and I don't have any idea how long it will take," Kaline said.

He said he was anxious to get on the field because "I like to get started as soon as I can," but he added he was not out of shape.

"I work all winter long, I always have," he said.

Campbell said he didn't talk to Cash Friday but Thursday Campbell said he felt they were not far apart in the contract talks.

He said since Horton is in Ford Hospital in Detroit he has not been able to talk with him. Horton is receiving treatment for a minor ailment and is expected to be hospitalized until Sunday.

In years past, some major league clubs have disciplined ball players for not coming to terms by the deadline, by fining them for each day they don't sign after the deadline.

But Detroit's management never has done that and Campbell said that because of the player boycott things were unusual this year.

"There's a different set of circumstances this year, so I'll just play it by ear," he said, as he sat on a bench watching the team take batting practice under the warm Florida skies.

Meanwhile, besides those not signed, only two other players were not in camp. Pitchers Mickey Lolich and Pat Dobson were still enroute to Lakeland.

Shortstop Tom Matchick, outfielder Jim Northrup, catcher Jim Rice, rookie Pitcher Bob Ware and veteran hurler Don McMahon showed up for the first time to swell the training roster almost to full strength. Price signed Friday moments after his arrival. Infield practice was confined primarily to the rookies who have been in camp since spring drills began Saturday. Don Pepper worked out at first, Dave Campbell at second, Junior Lopez and Tim Marting at shortstop and Ike Brown at third. Coach Grover Resinger gave them a brief workout on infield flies.

Mantle announces today

Mickey Mantle is expected to disclose his future plans today and there is speculation the veteran New York Yankee slugger will announce he's calling it quits after 18 seasons to accept a non-playing post with the Yanks.

The 37-year-old belter, famed for his tape-measure homers, is scheduled to report sometime today to New York's training camp at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and discuss his future with club officials.

There have been numerous reports since the close of last season that the soft-spoken superstar is considering retirement, but Mantle has refused to confirm or deny them. However, Mantle and the Yankees reportedly worked out an informal agreement sometime ago that he would be given a post with the team when he decided to end his playing career.

Mantle, who saw his average slip to a career low .237 last season, has been concerned with his inability to "hit any more."

Life & Leisure:

A guide for dedicated sun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

THE HORSE IN THE GRAY FLANNEL SUIT: The usual magic which sparks a Walt Disney film is missing in this agonizingly overextended story of a horse who triumphs both in the show ring and on Madison Avenue. On a double bill with "Winnie the Pooh," the shorter feature is the only thing that carries the program. — Wayside

THE GRADUATE: Hilarious, poignant, sometimes tragic story of a young man just out of college who must learn to accommodate himself to adult society. Dustin Hoffman's brilliant performance and director Mike Nichols' sure touch endow the film with both high and low-brow appeal, making it a well-deserved success on both counts. — Quo Vadis Penthouse II

BULLITT: Director Peter Yates has taken two movie clichés — the grimly honest cop in a corrupt world and star Steve McQueen — and he has made them both work. Artistically and technically excellent; cinema triumphant. — Martha Washington

WRECKING CREW: Elke Sommer provides the romantic spark for adventurer Matt Helm (Dean Martin) in a film which is far less a sequel than a rerun. Save it for a night when you just have to go to the movies. — State-Wayne

GONE WITH THE WIND: Clark Gable and Vivian Leigh in a love story as timeless as the film itself. If it's possible that anyone hasn't yet seen it, by all means do. — Quo Vadis

WHAT'S NEW, PUSSYCAT? WHAT'S UP TIGER LILY: The same formula approach used in the titles is also evident in the total scenarios which Woody Allen has lightly called motion pictures. The way-out Allen approach to comedy provides several hilarious moments, but hardly enough to sustain one — let alone two — full-length features. — Fifth Forum

RACHEL, RACHEL: A chronicle of human failure, of the perpetual spinster who turns everything she touches to sterility and defeat. Paul Newman's first attempt at direction may well establish him as an artist in a second field, while Joanne Woodward's performance proves, once again, her virtuosity as a character actress. — Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

THE LAST SHOT YOU HEAR: If a seething love triangle is good, a fourth angle should be better — or worse, if the original story happens to be completely bogged down in all the clichés of the would-be murder thriller. Direction, acting, photography and sound track all maintain a similar low standard. — University Drive-in

ROMEO AND JULIET: Director Franco Zeffirelli's contemporary retelling casts two real teen-agers in the roles of the adolescent lovers. The dramatic poetry of Shakespeare's lines is somewhat obscured, but the freshness and immediacy of this down-key version more than compensate for the loss. In Zeffirelli's hands, the play becomes one of character, and the transformation is as exciting emotionally as it is intellectually. — Fox Village

COOL HAND LUKE: Paul Newman turns in a moving performance as a man who refuses to be broken by the incredible inhumanities of a Southern prison camp. Studied with gallows' humor, the film is almost unbearably harsh, but it is a harshness justified by a story that ought to be told. — Ypsi-Ann

BONNIE AND CLYDE: Blamed as a factor in the increasing trend towards violence in the cinema, the film actually is to be applauded for tempering a potentially sensational theme with sound psychological and dramatic conflict. If the film is brutal, it is only because kilehrs are. — Ypsi-Ann

THREE IN THE ATTIC: Light-hearted spoof on feminine tactics in the perpetual battle of the sexes. Yvette Mimieux stars as one of three sullied ladies who avenge themselves on their shared lover by imprisoning him in their dormitory and impressing him into stud service. Not for children or mothers about to send a daughter to college. — Quo Vadis Penthouse I, State

YELLOW SUBMARINE: Full-length animated cartoon featuring the Beatles in perilous combat with the Blue Meanies and all the other people who can't stand happiness. No one but a you-know-what dare find the film anything short of a delight. — Michigan

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW: Masterful adaptation of Shakespeare's slashing comments on how to handle a woman. Filled with color and pageantry, the film is further distinguished by the Burtons' brilliant handling of the Shakespearean meter. A film the Bard himself might have applauded. — Campus

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS: Paul Scofield turns in an excellent performance as Sir Thomas More in this story of a man's refusal to bend with the exigencies of the moment. Technically and dramatically excellent throughout, the main problems in the film seem to arise from a certain credibility gap in the hero himself. Nevertheless, the movie ranks easily among the best of Hollywood's recent efforts. — Campus

THE DEVIL'S BRIDE: British thriller depicting a suprahuman battle of the black arts for the souls of a young man and his would-be bride. Properly horrific, the film is distinguished by highly inventive special effects, as well as a passably good performance by star Christopher Lee. — Wayne Drive-In, University Drive-In

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER: Carson McCuller's story of a deaf-mute too sensitive for the vulgar tragedies of this world, too compassionate for the people who inhabit it. A fragile film kept this side of sentimentality by Alan Arkin's flawless handling of the title role. — Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing pathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. — La Parisien

Harpist Jill Bailliff will be the featured soloist in a concert to be presented Sunday in Pease Auditorium by the EMU-Civic Orchestra.

Music

BAND CONCERT: The U-M concert, varsity and Wolverine bands, under the direction of George Cavender and George Cavanagh, will present a joint concert tomorrow afternoon. Among pieces included in the program are works by Hanson, Strauss, Von Williams, Bright, Jacob, Hovhanness, Osterling, Latham and Persichetti. The repertoire was selected to illustrate the full range of band activities at the university. — U-M Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor; Sunday at 3:30 p.m.; admission free

SERGIU COMMISSIONA, musical director of the Baltimore Symphony, will be the guest conductor for this evening's Detroit Symphony Orchestra concert. In a repeat of Thursday's concert, his program will include Dvorak's Symphony No. 8 in G major, Britten's "Frank Bridge Variations" for Strings and Ravel's "La Valse." — Ford Auditorium, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. concert; tickets from $3 to $5

Night life

CANTERBURY HOUSE: The news is Good News, a hot new Elektra recording group, and they'll be delivering all this weekend at Ann Arbor's Canterbury House. Good company and free refreshments are standing features. — Canterbury House, 330 Maynard; shows from 8 p.m.; admission $1.50

Mariner 6 'Looks good'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 6 was reported on target today on its trip to Mars. "Everything looks good. The burn was precise," said a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory after rockets on the camera-carrying spacecraft were fired for 5.4 seconds Friday to nudge it into a path to take it within 2,000 miles of Mars on July 30.

Ferns diverse

There are 10,000 species of fern ranging from delicate, filmy plants less than an inch high to 80-foot tropical giants with palmlike fronds.

Mariner 6, launched Monday, was 750,000 miles from earth with 226 million miles left at the time. It carries twin cameras to search the surface of the planet for indications of life.

'Talkers' nabbed in burglary

COLOMA (AP) — Authorities say a trio of "walkie-talkie" burglars yanked over their plans so much over the air waves that they talked themselves into the arms of the law. Berrien County sheriff's men said a Coloma woman listening to her citizen band radio overheard a walkie-talkie conversation between some men about a burglary scheme.

Two men fled the building up when deputies arrived. But shortly afterward, a Coloma policeman arrested Richard L. Krieger, 23, of Coloma in a car containing a walkie-talkie. Sheriff's men then took into custody James R. Nemitz, 19, of Coloma, who was identified as the owner of the car. Raymond L. Dukeshire, 17, of Coloma, later walked into the police station and gave himself up.

Our best to you...

EMU-CIVIC ORCHESTRA: Edward J. Szabo, new musical director, will lead the orchestra in the fourth concert of their 1968-69 season tomorrow afternoon. Guest artists, both members of the EMU faculty, will be Jill Bailliff, harpist, who will perform Debussy's "Dances for Harp and String Orchestra" and Charles Roe, will narrate Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf." The orchestra portion of the program will also include Morton Gould's "American Salute," Benjamin Britten's "Simple Symphony" and "Toccata" by Frescobaldi. — EMU Pease Auditorium; 4 p.m. Sunday; admission free

Despite court approval:

Dearborn's 'mecca' far off

DEARBORN (AP) — Dearborn's got the building and court approval to go along with it, but blueprints to turn an apartment house in Clearwater, Fla., into a retirement mecca exclusively for residents of the Detroit suburb are far from realized.

Mayor Orville Hubbard, elected last year to his 13th two-year term, first dreamed of a retirement haven for Dearborn residents 11 years ago. Plans to establish a "Dearborn, Fla." have been defeated at the polls four times in ten years by Dearborn voters. But Hubbard announced just over a year ago that he had gone ahead and bought an apartment house anyway.

"People in Dearborn have never had the idea proposed to them in quite this way before,"

Hubbard said at the time. He said the eight-story building in Clearwater had been purchased with surplus city funds—without a local tax increase or federal funds.

The city already had established a 65-acre recreation complex in nearby Oakland County where Dearborn residents can frolic in the summer sun.

In addition, there were two buildings for senior citizens in Dearborn and another under construction.

But Clearwater, Fla., was just a bit far away, thought several residents, and attorney James Thomason sought to stop the project in court.

The Michigan Court of Appeals now says the city acted legally in buying the $1.1 million building in Clearwater.

"A tremendous social victory and another giant step in fulfilling our obligations in providing for the elderly," Hubbard hailed the court's action.

However, the dream of a retirement haven strictly for Dearborn residents still is in the future, according to Stephen R. Janek, manager of the Dearborn Towers in Clearwater.

Janek says Dearborn officials were "a little too ambitious" in their proposal for senior housing.

Only half of the present tenants are retirees and the idea for an all-retiree apartment building "probably is a long way off," Janek says. At last count, Dearborn officials said there were 13 Dearborn couples at the apartment—all retirees.

Your Social Security

By ROBERT A. KEHOE
Social Security District Manager
Q. I am a housewife who hasn't worked since World War II but I have enough credit for my own Social Security. When I reach 62 I will have a 20-year-old son in college. I plan to sign up for my own benefit even though my husband will still be working. What I want to know is will my son be eligible for anything when I get my benefits?

A. Yes. A recent change in the law makes children eligible for monthly benefits on their mother's record if their mother is insured for Social Security regardless of when she got her earnings credit.

Q. A friend of mine said that he heard on the radio that all reports to Social Security such as change of address, should be handled through the Ann Arbor Social Security office. When I filed my claim for Social Security benefits, I was given a card to send to a payment center. What should I do with this card?

A. What your friend told you is true. The Social Security Administration is requesting that all reports be sent to your local Social Security office for processing. The card you have can be corrected by marking out the payment center address and replacing it with the Ann Arbor Social Security office's address; Social Security Administration P.O. Box 627 Ann Arbor, Michigan 48107

California sued By employees

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The California State Employees Association is suing the state for $2.6 million, claiming 1,407 hospital and school employees were not paid overtime. The suit, filed Friday, contends the state owes $1,294,558 for more than 500,000 hours of unpaid overtime and asks an equal amount for damages. The association claims the state paid straight time rates although a 1967 federal law requires payment of time and a half for overtime work of such employees.

VARSITY SHOW, a 1937 musical starring Dick Powell and Rosemary and Priscilla Lane, is a visual testament of an era when people demanded that the screen provide vicarious relief from the harsh realities of the Depression. Filled with music and pageant, the film recalls the "rah, rah" spirit of college days and the carefree spirit of an earlier period. As delightful now as it was then. — Ford Museum, Greenfield Village, Dearborn; shows Sunday at 2 and 4 p.m.; included in regular museum admission of $2 for adults and $1 for children

NOTES FROM THE UNDERGROUND: Mad Marvin seemed particularly pleased with this week's program, a collection of award-winning animations grouped as a "Stoned Animation Trip." Despite the somewhat gimmicky title, the films include such well-known entries as Bartlett's "Off-On," as well as such kooky cartoons as Mickey Mouse going off to war. Rounding off the program is a Betty Boop cartoon and the next episode in a Gene Autry serial. If you're down when you come in, chances are you won't be by the time you leave. — Fifth Forum Theater, Ann Arbor; tonight through Sunday at the 11 p.m. show only; admission $2

Charlton Heston and Rex Harrison star as Michelangelo and his patron in the film version of Irving Stone's "The Agony and the Ecstasy," Sunday at 9 p.m. on channel 7.

TV

SOME LIKE IT HOT: Billy Wilder's zany satire of the Twenties as seen from the curious viewpoint of two men hiding from the mafia in an all-girl band. Marilyn Monroe, Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon have rarely been better. — tonight at 9; Ch. 4

EAST OF EDEN: The late James Dean proves well worthy of idol status in Elia Kazan's sensitive adaptation of Steinbeck's story of a boy rebelling against the hypocrisy he finds everywhere around him. Julie Harris and Raymond Massey head the supporting cast in a film which must rank as one of a great director's best. — Sunday at 1 p.m.; Ch. 9

WALT DISNEY'S WORLD: Cartoon ranger J. Audubon Woodlore surveys "nature's Better-built Homes" in this animated and film study of animal architecture. Special consideration is given to the beaver, the waterbell spider who lives in an underwater bubble, the prairie dog and the elastic-mouthed jawfish. Olan Soule narrates. — 7:30 p.m. Sunday; in color on Ch.

DARLING: Highly acclaimed British film which focuses on the complete moral indifference of an ambitious model, Julie Christie, Dirk Bogarde and Laurence Harvey head a distinguished cast. — Sunday at 11:30 p.m.;

THE GOOD WOMAN OF SET-ZUAN: The most recent addition to the Hilberry repertory is this new English adaptation of Brecht's powerful allegory about a Chinese prostitute designated by the gods as the only good woman on earth. Directed by Leonard Leone with musical

A STREET CAR NAMED DESIRE: Tennessee William's modern tragedy about the decadent southern aristocracy in need of physical rejuvenation. Bonstelle Theater production. Wayne State University, 3424 Woodward, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets $2

SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL: Reminiscent of Moliere's comedies of manners, Sheridan's play is a spirited satire of the social scene in late 18th century England, which could not differentiate between real virtue and the mock piety of the hypocrite. Sharp and witty, the play is a classic of the English stage. — University of Detroit, Ford Life Sciences Bldg.; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets $2 direction by Robert H. Cowden.—Hilberry Classic Theater, WSU, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $3

LONG DAY'S JOURNEY INTO NIGHT: Hailed as one of Eugene O'Neill's greatest plays, "Journey" probes the half-buried ghosts which haunt the playwright's own family. It is a deeply personal statement; however, O'Neill has infused it with an almost classic tragic dimension which makes it universal, as well. Under the direction of Johan Fillingim. — Meadow Brook Theater, Oakland University, Rochester; 8:15 p.m. curtain; tickets from $3 to $5

ART FOR COLLECTORS is the general name given to an exhibition of approximately 300 works available for purchase currently on display at the Toledo Museum of Art. Ranging from ancient glass and pottery to contemporary paintings and prints, the show is designed to present young collectors with an array of fine art objects not ordinarily readily available. The collection has been gathered from all over the world and offers at prices between $10 and $2,500 a full spectrum of major art pieces. — Toledo Museum of Art, Toledo, Ohio; through March 23 with galleries open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday and Monday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Stock thefts have no reliable figure

(Last of a series)
NEW YORK (AP) — When asked the extent of securities thefts in the financial district here, a member of an industry committee formed to study the problem replied: "There just aren't any reliable figures."

And another, in answer to the same question, stated: "It is definitely a problem but we don't know the scope and depth." Unofficial estimates, however, place the total in the millions of dollars.

The inability of industry officials to give reliable estimates is closely tied to the problem. No agency of the industry compiles complete statistics on thefts. In fact, little coordinated effort was given to the matter until recently. Late last year the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Crime set up offices in the financial district. And the big firms that insure brokers against losses began to rebel at having to pay out so much money.

Earlier this month the industry committee was formed "to study the incidence of securities thefts and other crimes against financial institutions." But it must work from scratch; very little data are available.

Information on securities thefts is gathered by police agencies, but generally it is available to others. Brokers or their representatives cannot see the criminal records of the New York police or the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The head of a company that investigates the backgrounds of hundreds of newly hired brokerage house employees, a former FBI man, commented: "There is no legal way to obtain criminal records. They must be obtained subterfugeously."

Nor is there any central agency for listing the names and backgrounds of brokerage house employees who have been dismissed on suspicion of embezzlement or for breaches of acceptable behavior.

A dismissed employee may move to a similar job with another broker, perhaps in another city. In these days of clerical shortages some brokers eagerly put an experienced hand to work immediately, with few questions asked.

Because of the chaotic condition of records in some brokerage offices, the new employee might find himself in a position to walk off with securities and not even be suspected of theft for many months.

Some brokers feel that if records of dismissed employees were maintained by an industry agency, and the records made available to all, the hiring of potential thieves would be greatly lessened.

Also needed, they say, is a central records system for stolen securities. If missing stocks and bonds are to be recognized as such, they contend, then all brokers must contribute information to the system and draw on it as well.

In a sense, these shortcomings, which may be contributing to a dangerous loss of confidence by the investing public, are just more evidence of an industry badly in need of modernizing.

The brokerage business has generally been one of individuals or partnerships. Until recently it had little of the formal structure that characterized the corporations whose shares it traded.

In most houses the emphasis has been almost solely on sales. Humdrum matters, such as record keeping, although they might have been meticulously attended to, were seldom the focus of the boss' efforts. Sales, not records, made money.

Reflecting this, front offices often were sumptuous, even overstaffed, but back offices were barren. In an age of computers, some firms until recently were little advanced beyond the quill.

When the sales efforts paid off in a trading boom the back offices weren't ready. Front offices were kept assuringly comfortable, but only because everything was swept behind the facade.

Now, under prodding and discipline by regulatory agencies and the stock exchanges, modern methods are being applied to the mess. Opinions differ on how strenuously the modernization is being pursued or if it is effective.

Meanwhile, as one insurer states, the disorderly situation could mean a heyday for professional thieves.

Surveying The business scene

Inspiration for super insurance salesman

NEW YORK (AP) — Speeches at separate times during the past few years by a priest, a psychiatrist and a former presidential cabinet officer are providing inspiration today for a group of superinsurance salesmen.

Often such men are thought to be animated by slogans, selfhelp books, pep talks, sales meetings. Their overriding motivation, it is sometimes popularly believed, is a hunger for commissions. These insurers, members of the Million Dollar Round Table, now are preaching involvement, public service, charity, responsibility. Not long ago it seemed preoccupied with self-service: "How can I sell more life insurance?"

In fact, the chief criterion for belonging to the 7,000-member group still is proof of $1 million in sales to at least 10 customers in one year. Its literature refers constantly to excellence, but seems to equate it with money.

The new personality is being promoted through this so-called "Whole Man Concept," a title that might suggest to some that in the past these efficient, disciplined, effective, productive people considered themselves less than whole.

What brought about the conversion?

A few years ago, said Stanley Watts of Miami, an executive of Equitable Life Assurance and president of the Round Table, Rev. John McCall of Weston and Boston colleges addressed the annual meeting on "The Four Desires of Man."

As Watts relates it, these desires are for pleasure, success, to do one's duty and to understand the philosophical or religious meaning for existence.

"We like to think members of the Round Table have passed through the first two and are in the third or fourth," said Watts. By the fourth stage, he agreed, members can well afford to contemplate.

Father McCall gave impetus to the desire of members to broaden their concept of excellence, and so they were primed for a talk sometime later by Dr. Victor Frankl, an eminent psychiatrist.

Frankl, author of "Man's Search for Meaning," put the concept into clear focus. Watts said, when he asserted that responsibility is the essence of existence.

And last June, John Gardner, former secretary of health, education and welfare and now chairman of the U-ban Coalition, showed how the desire could be acted upon with a speech called, "What One Man Can Do."

"Your community needs you; the nation needs you," he told the salesmen.

"First, forget about status."

There are a certain number of men and women who use community service as a means of climbing the social ladder ... Forget all of that. Find the jobs that need to be done and help to do them," he added.

Area Business Notes

DETROIT (AP) — Burroughs Corp. has announced a new desk-size billing computer called the L2000 which can be purchased for prices ranging from $11,000 to $20,000. The firm said application programming for the new system will be priced separately from the computer hardware.

Wendell Barnes, owner for 20 years of Barnes Foodland at Forest and Prospect Sts., has affiliated with Klemann Real Estate. Mr. Barnes has completed a course in Real Estate at the University of Michigan and has received his license.

Contemporary Structures, Inc. of 19 N. Washington Ave. has announced the promotion of Louis J. Whitton from sales consultant of its Ypsilanti-Ann Arbor offices to district sales manager of its Monroe district.

The firm also revealed that Donald N. Rech, formerly of the Sun Oil Co. engineering department, has been appointed as engineering coordinator of Contemporary's design and engineering department here. James A. Breje, a graduate engineer of the University of Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, has also accepted a position as staff structural engineer.

Contemporary Structures, with its general offices here, is a firm which offers design and construction of industrial, commercial and institutional facilities.

University of Michigan Prof. Thomas G. Gies has been elected vice-chairman of the Bank of Lansing, according to an announcement made by the bank's board of directors.

Gies, a professor of finance at U-M's graduate school of business administration, is also an executive vice president of the Comac Company, a director of Bank of the Commonwealth in Detroit, the Huron Valley National Bank and Laser Systems Corporation.

Tech talk

By GILES F. CARTER

EMU State Technical Services Director

The American Society for Metals has thirty different bibliographies available at only $5 each for members and $10 for non-members. These bibliographies cover fields such as brazing and soldering, die casting, precision casting, extrusion, forging, electrocoating and enameling, cleaning and deburring, and induction heat treatment.

If you are beginning a new project, here is an excellent and inexpensive way to start. Or if you want to learn the state of the art and what others are doing, investigate these bibliographies. Copies of technical articles from most trade magazines and scientific journals can be obtained through the mail from the Technology and Science Division, Detroit Public Library, 5201 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Michigan 48202. Charges are minimal.

Sections of bathrooms, refrigerator food liners, interior roof liners for autos, and ornate tables need a giant sized machine when they are made in one piece from plastics. Machines having mold clamping forces of 2,000 to 5,000 tons are now being manufactured.

In fact, about 40 of these injection molding machines are now in use. Shot sizes in the future will range up to 100 pounds, but 50 pounds is the largest at present. Projected surface area for big parts will be at least seven square feet.

Some of the greatest recent advances in plastics have been in the field of machines for processing. Development is so rapid that obsolescence of equipment is a real problem of plastics processors. Some processors are turning to leasing in answer to this problem.

Questions from local industries on technological needs and problems can be sent to Prof. Carter in care of The Press, or directly to him at Eastern Michigan University, 483-6100, ext. 2189.

A close-up look around Ypsilanti's railroad depot

The main section of the depot, once a three-story building, has withstood fires and train collisions, since being constructed during the mid 1850s.

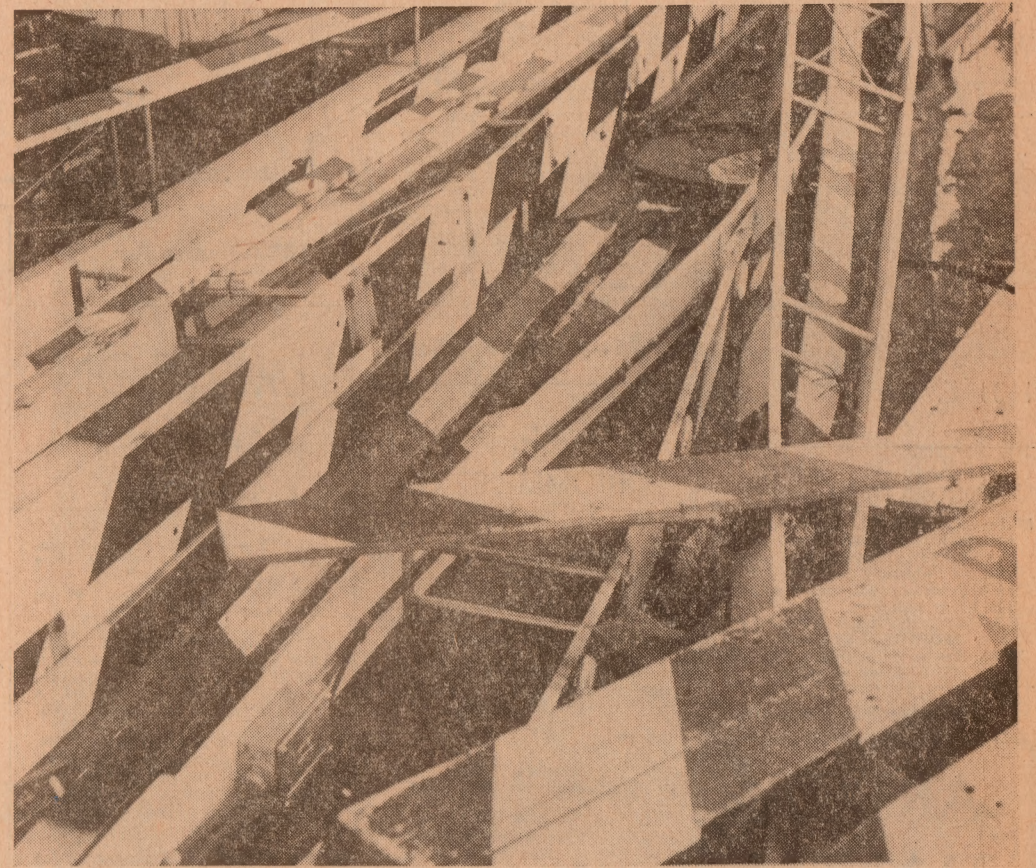

Station Was built In 1850's

The present day red brick railroad depot located on the northwest corner of River and Cross Sts. was built in the mid 1850's at the initiation of a city forefather, Benjamin Follet.

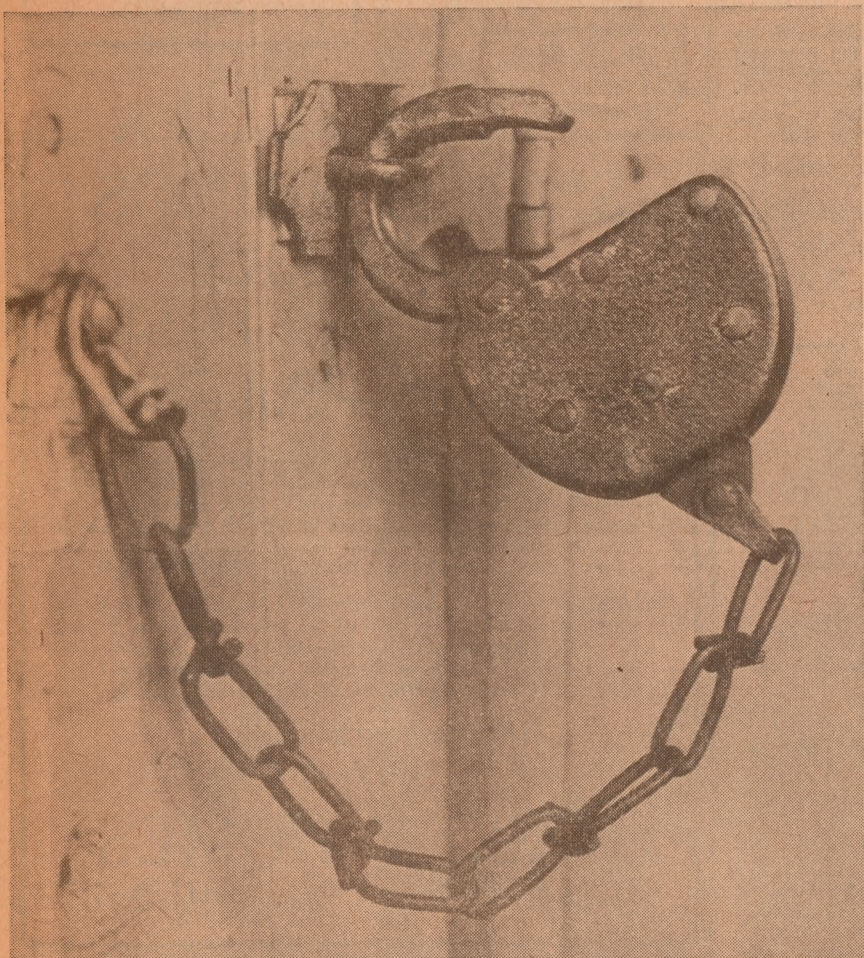

Once considered the finest station on the line, the depot has survived a ravaging fire and train collisions. First owned and operated by the Michigan Central Railroad and later by the New York Central, the station currently is part of the Penn Central line.

In Aug. of 1939, a derailed freight car jumped the rail and ran into the station. A telegrapher in the building ran for his life, while five hobos took a real bumpy ride.

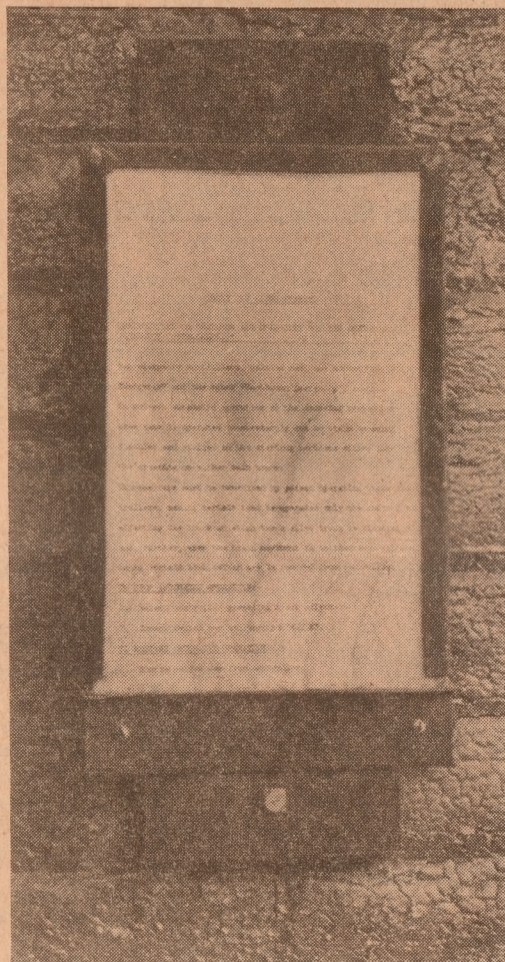

On May 28, 1910, a fire destroyed the third floor of the building, where the station agent lived. The third floor and the roof were burned, while the entire station received considerable water damage.

A collection of broken crossing gates, some of whom have come out second best in clashes with automobiles, lies on the station grounds.

An old lock keeping the tool shed closed to all but those entitled to venture within.

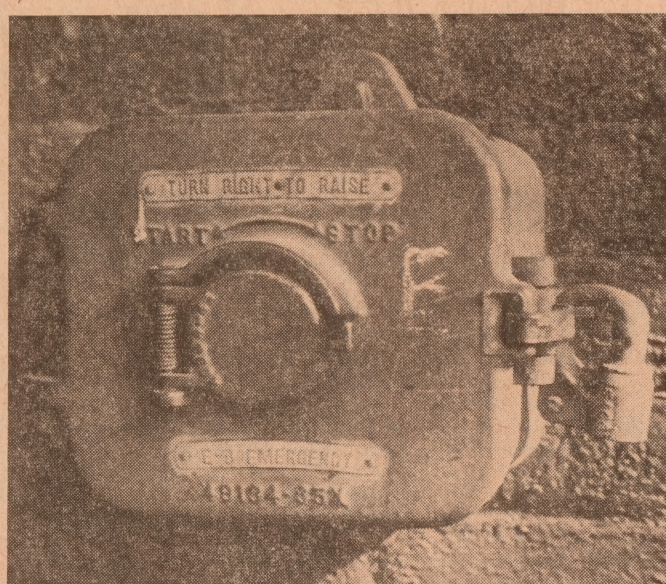

Instructions tell how to raise the station gates in an emergency.

With the rear of stores on E. Cross St. in the background, an old freight hand car waits for the next train to arrive.

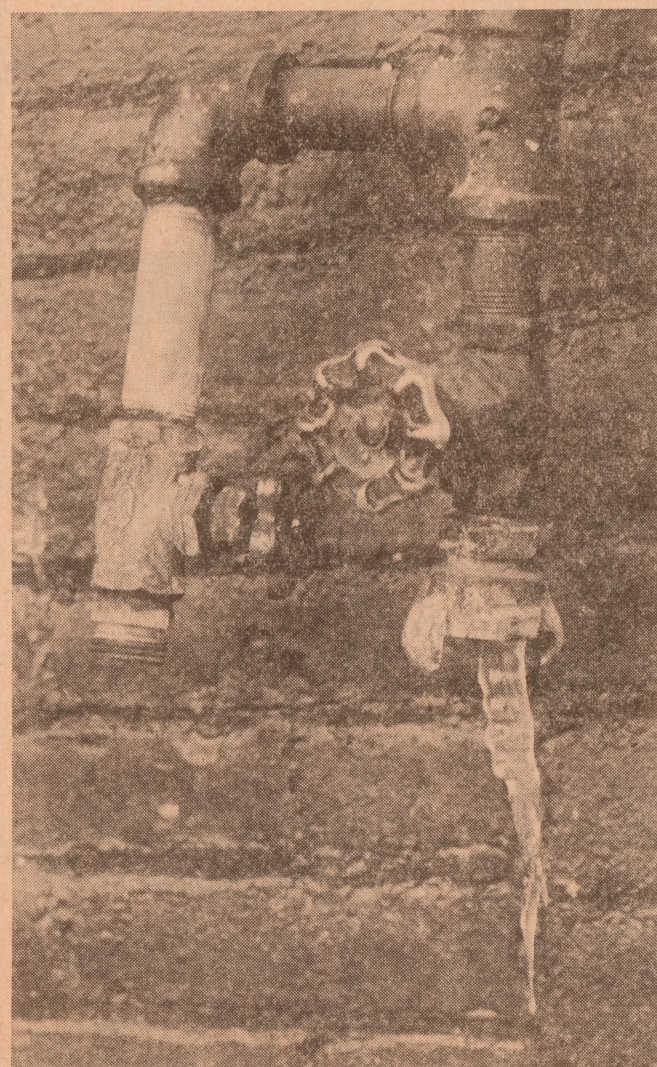

The station's main door, with the rusty old fashioned lock hanging from its chain stands ready for customers to enter.

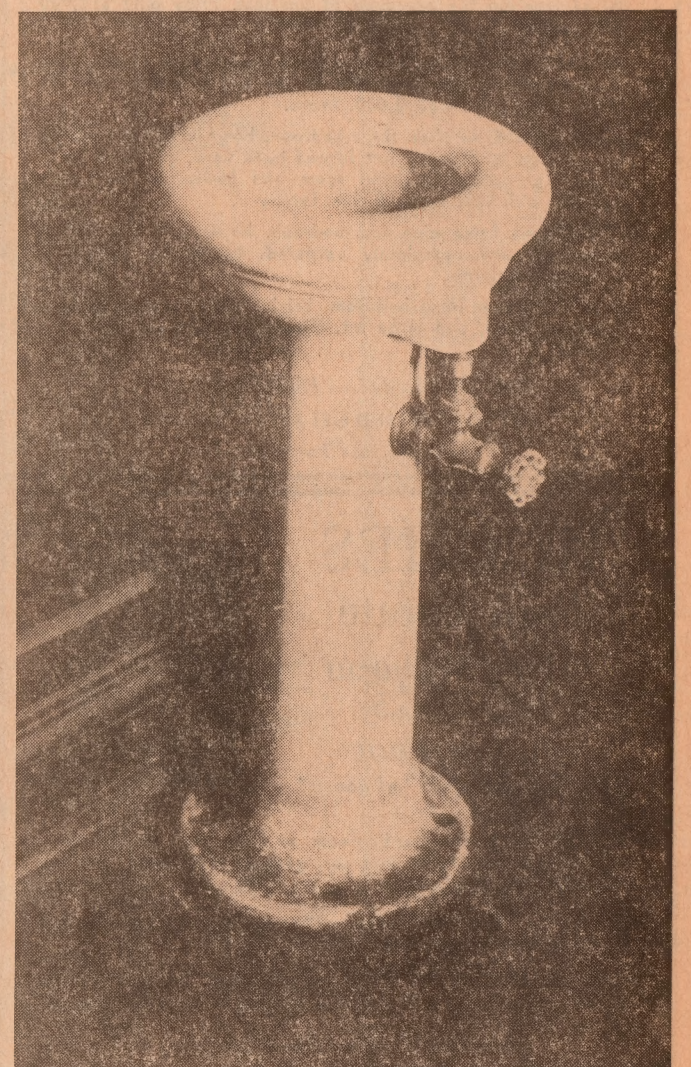

A box to be opened in an emergency for raising the gates.

Press Photos
By Sumner W. Fowler

A water valve, with several complicated attachments made through the years, has its drip-pings frozen by winter's cold.

An old fashioned water fountain sits in a corner of the station house, as if unaware of its modern counterparts found in most other buildings.
